Lancaster Farming Writer Travels To Poland

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — To fly to Poland for three weeks isn't a typical assignment for a Lancaster Farming writer. But it promises to be educational and exciting.

I will accompany Penn State Extension's professional development team as they travel throughout Poland. The purpose is two-fold: to share extension projects that have worked in the U.S. and can be shaped to fit Polish needs, and to learn from them.

Because Poland has no natural borders to the east and west, it has often been overrun by other countries, especially by Germany and Russia, which borders it.

World War II was especially devastating to Poland. Nazi Germany killed six million Poles and all the Polish Jewish population living in Poland. After the war, Poland fell under communist rule.

Amazingly they maintained more freedom than any other communist country. Their refusal to be controlled and their staunch faith in God are the reasons attributed for Poland being able to survive intense oppression.

The country is more than 90 percent Catholic and, unlike other communist countries,

Farming Along Major Highways Presents Many Challenges

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

ELVERSON (Chester Co.) — It's 5 a.m. Saturday morning. For the Bill Beam family, who farm 1,500 acres in this heavily populated area, it's one of the few times they can move large pieces of farm equipment without causing a traffic jam.

"When I first started farming ground toward Dowingtown in 1982, I didn't have to go through a single stop light. Now there are quite a few. Traffic has increased dramatically. We've had to adjust the movement of equipment around the time of day," Beam said. "On the weekdays it seems you can't get up early enough to beat the traffic."

Farming is chock-full of daily difficulties that can be overcome with a little patience and perseverance. But when you factor in the growing population right outside your doorstep, those difficulties often change your lifestyle. Beam is one of the many farmers who deal with the increased challenges of farming along a major highway every day.

"I basically live in semi-suburbia," said Beam, who is located 30 miles west of Philadelphia in an area that is growing rapidly. "There is preserved land right next to me, but we lose farms all the time. I'm not sure who's going to win."

Beam now farms 30 tracts, some of which are spread out 15-20 miles away. He doesn't remember a time when this area of the state wasn't buzzing with traffic but he has seen an increase in the number of vehicles.

A check of the traffic statistics confirms this ever-growing trend. According to the Bureau of Transportation, in 1965 there were 91,739,623 registered vehicles on the highway. In 1998, according to the most recently published statistics, there were 215,496,003 registered vehicles. That corresponds to a national population of 270,248,003 people in 1998. Number of miles

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
August 29, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

Grain and soybean bids gathered some strength after yesterday's declines. Light overnight export sales offered a little support but trade corrections and fund buying were main plus factors. Otherwise, trading was quiet as traders wait to see how weekly export turn out and what the next production reports will show. Good growing weather continued to limit advances.

Wheat 2 to 5 cents higher. Corn 2 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 4 cents higher. Soybeans mostly 1 to 7 cents higher with some 3 cents lower in Central Illinois.

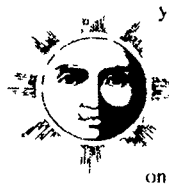
The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

SEPTEMBER 3–9, 2001

LABOR DAY, SEPT. 3

SWIFTLY FLOW THE DAYS

Cool your heels—it's still summer. School may be starting again, but the sun remains hot at midday. It is estimated that 90 percent of skin-damaging rays from the sun come between 10 A.M. and 3 P.M., so protect yourself and your children. If you don't have sunblock handy, long sleeves, a big straw hat, and good old-fashioned shade are all the precautions you need. There has been increasingly less daylight since the Summer Solstice on June 21, but even on Labor Day there is still plenty of time to soak up a sunburn. Robert Louis Stevenson's poem "Bed in Summer" sums it up: "In winter I get up at night / And dress by yellow candlelight. / In summer, quite the other way / I have to go to bed by day."



Only mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun!

-English proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

Run a pot of white vinegar and water (half and half) through the coffee maker to clean it.

STUFFED TOMATOES

30 ripe cherry tomatoes
4-1/2 ounces (about 1/2 cup) goat cheese
3 teaspoons bread crumbs
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons red wine vinegar
salt and pepper, to taste
6 ounces baby arugula leaves

Preheat oven to 350°F. Remove the stems and cores from cherry tomatoes. Spoon goat cheese into hollows, then stand the tomatoes upright in a baking dish. Sprinkle tops with bread crumbs and drizzle half the olive oil over the top. Bake about 15 minutes. In a salad bowl, whisk remaining olive oil with vinegar and spices. Toss with arugula.

Makes 6 servings

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Bats flying late in the evening mean fair weather.

September rain is good for crops and vines.

OPINION

Hope All Is Fair, And Reported

Every once in a while we strive to provide a personal reflection on what may be a very common, widespread concern.

Over the course of some time, we have witnessed a very interesting development: how time and again local media tend to either ignore the concerns of the farm community or get those concerns completely wrong.

Often at the fairs we attend, we hear about how such and such weekly or daily newspaper in certain areas never covers the fair. Many never run 4-H or FFA happenings. When an event of particular interest will suit and possibly benefit a wide range of readers, invariably the local media are not present.

Why?

That's the question some of our staff receives. We may not have direct, well-documented, correct answers, but we have our observations and beliefs.

• One "belief" the general public may have is that many small-town newspapers, regional weeklies, and even the large dailies don't cover ag events, particularly fairs, much anymore. (Fortunately, this is far from the case here in Lancaster, where most fair events get complete coverage on a consistent basis. Maybe they listen to us, we don't know.) Possibly it's because ag in general is given low priority on the slugsheet (the sheet used to track headlines and reporters covering stories), handled by rookie reporters or stringers. We consider this desperately unfortunate.

• Belief number two, "positive ag news in general doesn't get reported." Some in the general public believe some news media simply find reporting about agriculture either boring or unappealing. We find that unprofessional attitude quite profound in its own juvenile, simplistic way.

• Three, "bad news sells newspapers." Another myth, like the one above about good news not getting reported. Unfortunately for some daily and weekly general news media, they've obtained this cynical attitude somewhere, perhaps unintentionally. The bad news: sometimes they believe in and subscribe to this myth.

• Four, "nothing can be done about ag news coverage." This is completely, undeniably wrong. Every newspaper has a managing editor. He or she is the one responsible for what the newspaper publishes. Seek that person out and talk to him or her. State your case, your reasons, and reasonable editors will make the changes and you may find your event covered.

Remember that there is a face behind what news gets reported. It isn't some untouchable council or high assembly reporting out of some wordless monastery. It's more like a tired, sometimes overworked, ordinary person who simply may have forgotten how important agriculture is to the town and community. It's a situation we believe can be fixed.

Now Is The Time

To Harvest Corn Silage At The Proper Moisture

Harvesting corn silage at the proper moisture is one of the most important steps in producing quality silage. The ideal moisture for your operation will be determined by what kind of storage structure you will use. For sealed airtight silo,s the ideal range is 60-65 percent; for upright silos, 63-68 percent; and for bunker silos, 65-70 percent moisture is the desired range.

Ideally, one should monitor moisture during harvest to stay within the optimum moisture range. If this is not practical, you can monitor moisture by the stage of crop development.

There is a simple method you can use to determine this optimum stage for harvesting your corn silage. When the kernels reach early dent stage, a separation can be seen between kernel starch and milk. Take an ear and snap it in half. You will see the firm starch deposited in the outer part of the kernel while the milk will occupy the base of the kernel. This gives the appearance of a whitish line separating the two areas.

As the kernels continue to mature, the milk line moves down the kernels. When this line reaches the midpoint, 90 percent of the kernel dry weight has been achieved. When the milk line reaches the base of the kernel, a black layer is formed separating the kernel starch from the cob and the crop is mature.

When the crop reaches full dent and the milk line first appears, the crop is usually about 70 percent moisture. When the milk line reaches the midpoint, silage yields should be at their maximum and the moisture is at 65 percent. When the milk line reaches the base of the kernel, the crop moisture is usually about 60 percent. By observing the development of the milk line, one can determine optimum harvest time.

The one limitation of this method is the weather variation. If you have experienced extremely wet or dry conditions for a few weeks before harvest, the moisture can vary by as much as 5 percent from the predictions given above.

To Eliminate Mosquito Breeding In Tires Used To Cover Bunk Silos

Bunk silos are a very efficient way to store silage and numerous tires are used to hold the plastic tarps which cover them. The recent arrival in this country of the mosquito-borne West Nile Virus has raised awareness of the importance of eliminating mosquito-breeding areas around the farm.

Jay Smoker, the West Nile Virus Program coordinator in Lancaster County, suggests that if you are still using whole tires to cover your bunk silos, this would be a good time to consider exchanging them. Old tires lying around can contribute to the mosquito problem around the farm.

Mosquitoes can breed in any standing or stagnant water. Tires and tire piles can produce a large crop of mosquitoes in a short time. There are no natural predators such as fish or other aquatic life to eat the larvae in the tires.

Also, the warm autumn sun beating on the tires accelerates the life cycle. Bits of silage or other organic debris found in the tires provides an ideal decaying food source for the developing mosquitoes.

In addition to being a nuisance around animals and humans, some species of mosquitoes carry the West Nile virus. They circulate around the animals, the female mosquitoes looking for a blood meal to fertilize their eggs. Infected females can transmit the virus to humans.

The best method of control is to eliminate standing water around the farm where mosquitoes breed. In bunk silos, the way to solve this problem is to use cut tires. Not only are halves easier and lighter to handle, water will not accumulate in them when turned upside down. Other advantages: there is no muck and they can be conveniently stacked.

Some tire recyclers now use a process called bageling where they cut the tire in three parts. The resulting sidewall looks like a bagel, thus the name. These sidewalls are very desirable for covering bunks. They are flat and tend to have fewer problems with protruding wires. The cost for these sidewalls is $.90 to $1.

Perhaps you may be able to arrange a swap. Take the old tires and bring home the sidewalls. You will want to check prices first with the tire-recycling dealer. Expect a fee to get rid of old tires as well. If you consider the cost in relation to the reduced health risk for humans and animals, the balance will be positive for your operation.

For more information on where to acquire split tires, contact Jay Smoker in the Lancaster County extension office at (717)-394-6851 or e-mail jaysmoker@psu.edu.

Editor:

I would never have thought the Maryland and Virginia Cooperative would have ever considered merging with Land O'Lakes. Up until now, I felt that I was in a very safe cooperative. I thought that my managers and elected directors were very capable at running our co-op.

Since our recent change in management, I have seen more change just for the sake of change. I have felt more distress in the last two years than in the previous eight years of our membership. I believe that we have been manipulated and put in positions that we would not have been in because our leadership has forgotten that they are working for our members and

THE PROOF IS IN THE TASTING

Background Scripture:
John 2:1-11.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 77:11-15.

The incidents recorded in John's gospel may be read on several different levels of meaning. This episode often serves as a scriptural blessing on the institution of Christian marriage. It is also a story that gives us some insight into the relationship between Jesus and his mother. On a metaphorical level John is telling us that the "new wine" of Jesus is superior to the sacramental waters of the Jewish purification ritual.

John also speaks of this as "the first of his (Jesus') signs." We may mentally translate "signs" into the more common term "miracles," but that word occurs only 12 times in the RSV Bible and none in any of the four gospels. Ancient peoples had no concept of scientific laws and thus no concept of "miracle."

As a boy I used to love to read the rhymed Burma Shave signs along the road — "Joe said . . . his car couldn't skid . . . This monument shows . . . it could . . . and did! . . . Burma Shave." These red and white signs and their humorous verse were not intended to be the message. The message was "buy Burma Shave." So it was with the wondrous works of Jesus. They were not the message, but the power and glory of God manifest in Jesus was.

Levels Of Meaning

In the 35 years that I have been writing this column, I have addressed this passage many times. Still, each time I read it, something pops out that I had not thought of or fully explored previously.

For example, Mary's simple statement to her son, "They have no wine" (v. 3). Why would Mary have said this to Jesus? Was she simply reporting on what had happened to the celebration, or was she in expectation that her son could do something about it? I doubt that Mary expected him to turn water to wine or had any idea just how he could alleviate this crisis, but there is in it a tone of expectancy.

I have sometimes thought that, for his "first sign," Jesus might have picked a more important crisis than the host's embarrassment when the wedding celebration lasted longer than his supply of wine. But it also occurs to me that Cana stands as a reminder that nothing in my life is too trivial to God in prayer. If a mere wedding feast was not too unimportant for God's concern, then there have certainly been lots of things that I have not shared with God in prayer because I thought them not worthy enough.

I am also intrigued at Jesus' response, "O woman, what have you to do with me? My hour is not yet come." This reply could be taken as a rebuke, but to me it sounds like some of the subtle playful banter between two persons who know and understand each other pretty well. Whatever his intention, her instruction to the servants indicates that Mary and Jesus have understood each other quite well: "Do whatever he tells you."

Mary's Confidence

Note that Mary never said to Jesus that he should run out and buy some more wine, much less suggest that he turn the water into wine. She doesn't presume to tell him how to solve this problem, but she is confident that he can do something.

This high expectancy must certainly been an important factor in what follows. Jesus tells the servants, " 'Fill the jars with water.' And they filled them to the brim." That done, he instructs them again: "Now, draw some out, and take it to the steward of the feast."

Up to now they had no way of knowing what Jesus was doing and no guarantee that their obedience would bring them anything but humiliation and censure.

But Mary's expectancy was contagious and, although they understood nothing of what was going on or how it would end, they did as they were told. On a rudimentary level this is faith — taking the risk to act on a promise or assurance.

I have no way of knowing if this "sign" would have occurred if Mary had not come expecting her son, if he had not reacted to this need with compassion, and if the servants had not done as they were told. But this incident, I believe, is instructive for us and our relationship to God in Christ. Prayers that are not expectant are not really prayers. We can not often know how God will help us, but we need to live in expectation that he will and discover for ourselves that the proof of the promise is to be found in the tasting.

Seasonal Dairy Is Good Fit For Family, Pastured Cows

DAVE LEFEVER

NELDMORE (Fulton Co.) — Ed and Sandy Swope and their three sons used to manage a milking herd of about 100 cows in a conventional free stall and milking parlor setup In the mid 1990's they decided it was time to make a change

It was a good living Ed Swope said But we had absolutely no time to do anything else

The Swopes now run a seasonal dairy in which all of the cows freshen over about a two month period roughly March and April This allows all of the cows to go into their dry period in mid January giving the Swope family about a month and a half break from milking

The clustered calving also matches the time of peak pasture production with the high point in the cows milk production

Ed and Sandy Swope of Meretal Farm in Fulton County switched from a year-around confinement dairy operation to a seasonal, pasture-based approach in 1999. They are shown with neighbor girl and "horsehand" Chelsey Berkstresser. The Swopes have three sons, ages 12 to 21, who also help on the farm.

Careful Planning Results In Pasture Producer Award For Byerly Brothers

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — When Don and Jeff Byerly decided to implement an intensive grazing system six years ago they had three goals in mind — none of which was receiving a statewide award But careful planning implementation and management of their permanent pastures earned these brothers the 2001 Outstanding Pasture Producer Award which they accepted recently from the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council

'Our goals were to change highly erodible ground from cultivated row crop production into permanent pasture to extend the grazing

Brothers Don and Jeff Byerly of Lewisburg, Union County, accepted the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council's Outstanding Pasture Producer Award for their careful management of 50 acres of permanent pasture

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Duane E. Pysher
Grassland Management Specialist
Natural Resources Conservation Service

Hello from your president as well as all of the board of directors of the PFGC

We recently conducted one of our regular board of directors meetings in order to conduct and carry out the business of PFGC At that meeting we discussed many important issues one of which was the 2001 summer picnic

This annual event brings forage producers and leaders from across Pennsylvania together in an informal atmosphere to enjoy a fun filled evening highlighted by good food and very pleasant surroundings at Evergreen Farms along the beautiful Spruce Creek

Don t forget to send in your reservation and money as soon as possible so you don t miss out I will be handling reservations this year as Dick Hann will be taking a well deserved vacation I am looking forward to seeing you there

One of the other items we discussed was the fact that for years PFGC has had a line item in the budget for sponsorship of local forage meetings and field days

In the 2001 budget we have continued that same line item I asked board member Craig Williams to serve as chairman of the Research and Education Committee Part of

"WAFFLE SLAT" Syri-Con Corporation

"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"

Harold Keeney, David, Nancy & Mark Wolfskill

Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense. I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn. The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria.

-David Wolfskill

"The answer to the most common question is 'No, there is no build-up.' "

Thank you, Wolfskills, for installing slats

Cheese Prices Rise On Unfilled Bids

Office Closed Labor Day

On Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3, Lancaster Farming office is closed. The office will reopen Tuesday, Sept. 4.

For the Sept. 8 issue, there are some deadline changes:

Public Sale and Mailbox ads, 5 p.m., Friday, Aug. 31.

Classified, Section D ads — 5 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 5.

Classified, Section C, Farm Equipment ads, 9 a.m., Wednesday, Sept. 5.

General News — noon, Thursday, Sept. 6.

- Block and barrel cheese up 6 and 5 cents Friday.
- Butter prices hold at $2.15 per pound.
- Manufacturing milk is short.
- Milk is flowing to fluid markets.

Block and barrel cheese prices rose six and five cents per pound, respectively, Friday, Aug. 24 at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

One car of blocks sold at $1.77 per pound. That was followed by unfilled bids at $1.78 for blocks and $1.68 for barrels. That raised the settlement prices for both.

Hot and humid weather a few weeks ago reduced milk receipts and component levels for milk entering manufacturing plants. Also, available supplies of milk are moving into fluid plants that are gearing up for the return of school children. USDA reported that 367 loads of milk moved into the Southeast this week to fill unmet needs. As a result, cheese plants in the rest of the U.S. reduced production schedules and cheese buyers are worried about available supplies.

Grade AA butter prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange weakened slightly this week, falling from $2.1550 per pound Monday, Aug. 20 to $2.1525 per pound by Friday, Aug. 24. Butter is at very lofty levels.

USDA reports that butter stocks are lighter than desired for this time of year, and that retail orders are mixed. This contradicts the Cold Storage report that indicates that July butter stocks are 6.2 percent ahead of a year ago.

Butter prices are reaching levels that are not sustainable for very long. In other words, the higher butter prices rise above $2 per pound, the faster they will likely fall later in the year when the market finds the milk supply is growing. That's what happened in 1998.

Adding to this concern over butter prices is new information from USDA regarding butter imports during the first seven months of the year (January-July). Imports within quota (licensed imports) were 12.384 million pounds, up 26.8 percent from the same period a year ago. Out of quota imports, or higher-tier imports, were 15.210 million pounds the first seven months of the year, up from 0.061 million pounds the same period a year ago. In July alone, out-of-quota imports, which are subject to a very high tariff rate, were 7.153 million pounds.

The higher butter and cheese cash prices have an obvious impact on Class III and IV futures prices. Class III futures at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange on August 24 settled at $15.55 per CWT for August, $15.75 for September, and $15 for October, and then declined to $13.28 by December. Class IV futures on August 24 settled at $15.04 per CWT for August, $15.50 for September, and $15.15 for October, and declined to $13.65 by December. These numbers indicate that dairy producers can look forward to two more milk checks with mailbox milk prices that will be higher than the month before. Thereafter, it looks like milk prices will begin to decline.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

For Abundant Winter Feed Plant Abundant Annual Ryegrass

Cereal Rye is a great double crop for following up corn or sudangrass, but what if there was something that yielded just as much and had better quality? According to Tim Fritz, Forage Agronomist for Ampac Seed Company, there is such an option The product is Abundant Tetraploid Annual Ryegrass

"High feed value is directly related to fiber level. The fiber level of Abundant Annual Ryegrass is low, resulting in a very high energy forage," says Tim "When compared to cereal rye, the yields are similar, but forage quality is superior with Abundant Abundant is a milking cow quality forage that will reduce feed costs"

More and more farmers and nutritionists are realizing that annual ryegrass, especially tetraploid annual ryegrass, generally has better feed value than cereal rye Futhermore, in recent trials, Abundant out-yielded cereal rye

Planted Sept 14, 2000
Western MD Research Cente
Keedysville MD

Variety	lbs DM / Ac
Abundant Ryegrass	6 819
Wheeler Cereal Rye	6 [illegible]3

Tim reminds farmers that protein content depends on nitrogen fertilization levels Farmers sould conduct soil samples and maintain adequate fertility levels to ensure optimal yields. Abundant can be planted by mid-September and return a November harvest of super quality feed Farmers can then expect two more sizeable harvests in the spring around mid-April, and in early May The field will then be ready for another row crop or grass crop

Planting Method:
Similar to alfalfa (surface) to 1/4" depth).
Seeding Rate:
30 plus lb per acre
Harvest Method:
Discbine mower or graze
Sicklebar mower will have difficulties

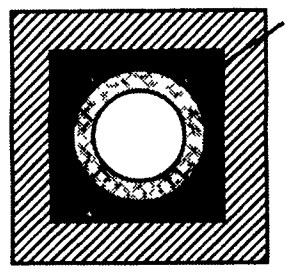
... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements. Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems distributed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

APPLYING FOR A CONSERVATION EASEMENT ON YOUR FARM

Lancaster County leads the nation in the amount of farmland preserved in U.S. counties. There are 43,000 acres of farmland preserved through the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board (APB) and the Lancaster Farmland Trust.

Funding for the farmland preservation in Lancaster County for 2001 is $10.7 million. The average amount landowners receive per acre is $2,300.

The APB has set criteria your farm must meet in order to receive a conservation easement. Additionally there will be some new changes to the ranking system to determine the priority order for 2002. There are some important considerations to make when preserving your farm, such as future housing needs, tax and estate planning, and payment options.

There are minimum criteria that your farm must meet for a conservation easement. Your farm must be at least 10 or more contiguous acres, located in an agricultural security area; composed of soils that are 50 percent classes I through IV, and be in agricultural and open space use. Following the Nov. 1 application deadline, the APB ranks all applications in priority order using the ranking system. Currently there are 200 farms on the waiting list to be preserved. The APB has already preserved 60 farms this year, with the longest a farm might wait being three years. For 2002 there will be new changes to the farmland ranking system, which determines the order in which farms are preserved.

The new changes award more points to applicant farms that follow a conservation plan, have applied to preserve the entire farm, are located in an area zoned for agriculture and are contiguous with existing preserved farms. The specific criteria ranks the farms soil quality at 40 percent, development potential at 10 percent, farmland potential at 25 percent and clustering potential at 25 percent. These changes reduce the amount of points awarded to farms with higher development potential and offer more points to those farms with good conservation practices and farms that help form clusters of other preserved farms. Once your farm is selected, a state certified appraiser determines the market value and the agricultural value of your farm. The difference between the two is the easement value, which is the dollar amount offered to the farmer in exchange for the development rights of his or her farm.

There are some important things to consider before preserving your farm. Once your farm is preserved, only one additional house may be built for the landowner, child or tenant who is directly involved with the farm operation. The farm may only be subdivided as long as all parcels are a minimum of 50 acres. Excluding part of your farm from the conservation easement may be something to consider if housing for additional family members or tenants is needed. The downside to withholding lots from the preserved farm is that it must be specified on the easement application, which reduces your ranking points along with affecting the outcome of the easement value.

Tax planning is a key step before preserving your farm. The sale of your conservation easement is taxed as a capital gain. It is strongly recommended that you consult with your accountant or tax attorney in planning for your capital gain tax.

There are three payment options you may choose from with the sale of your easement. The first is a lump sum payment, in which the APB pays the entire amount at settlement. The second option is a traditional installment sale, which allows you to pay tax on the sale proceeds as you receive them over a period of years.

With this option, you will receive a promissory note for the balance of the principle not received at settlement, plus interest. The third option is an installment purchase agreement. The seller can defer all or part of the easement purchase price for up to 30 years, while receiving semi-annual tax exempt interest payments on the outstanding principal. It is important to analyze how the sale of your conservation easement fits into your overall estate plan and business succession plan for your farm.

The deadline for applying for the 2002 conservation easement program is Nov. 1, 2001. Be sure to consult with your accountant, tax attorney, or estate planner before enrolling your farm into the preservation program. For additional information or to apply for a conservation easement, contact Matt Knepper at the Agricultural Preserve Board, P.O. Box 83480, Lancaster, PA 17608-3480. There will be discussion on ideas to deal with the drought on grazing operations.

The directions to the Minich farm from New Bethlehem, go on Route 861, six miles to the farm, the farm will be on your right. From Rimersburg, go two miles on Route 861 to Minich farm; the farm will be on your left. Signs will be posted to direct persons attending the meeting to the farm. Persons attending the meeting should dress for the weather, as the meeting will be conducted rain or shine.

Forage Workshop Scheduled In Cambria County

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — A workshop designed to evaluate proper silage/haylage management techniques will be conducted Thursday, Sept. 6 from 10 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. at the Loren Woy farm in Everett. Topics to be covered include filling, handling, and feeding of forage in both bunker and upright silos.

Dr. Bob Van Saun, extension specialist in the veterinary science, will be leading the workshop. In addition to having a veterinary medicine degree, Dr. Van Saun also holds a PhD in dairy nutrition, and is an expert in matching forage quality to production and herd health. Before coming to Penn State, he spent eight years working at Oregon State Univ. with large herds in Northwest Oregon and Southwest Washington State.

Farmers may bring a gallon-sized sample of corn silage or haylage for Dr. Van Saun to evaluate. He will have several instruments available to measure pH, particle size and density.

There is no cost to attend, but call the Bedford County Cooperative Extension Office at (814) 623-4800 to reserve a seat. Deadline to register is Sept. 3. For more information and/or directions, please call either Dwayne Hay at (814) 623-4800 or Michael Harteis at (814) 472-7986.

Swiss Cow, Alpine Doe Take Top Honors At Allentown Dairy Shows

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Out of six bovine and five dairy goat breeds shown at the Great Allentown Fair here Wednesday, a Brown Swiss cow and an Alpine doe were named supreme champions.

Exhibited by Shannon Semmel of Excelsior Farm near Schnecksville, three-year-old supreme Swiss "Mulan" displayed the traits of a winner, according to dairy judge John Bomgardner. Pointing out Mulan's impressive length, height, and overall dairy character, Bomgardner said, "She's what we're looking for" in a dairy cow.

Semmel said she is the main animal trainer on Excelsior Farm. Along with her sister and father, she helps maintain a Holstein milking herd and about eight Brown Swiss — in addition to holding down a fulltime job as a probation officer.

Mulan was named after the character in the animated Walt Disney film, Semmel said.

In a dairy goat show featuring the Alpine, LaMancha, Nubian, Saanen, and Toggenburg breeds, an Alpine doe shown by Brant Kloiber emerged as best of show.

Kloiber is in his last year as member of the Northampton Co. Goats-4-Us CLub. He lives on an 11-acre farm near Bath where he also raises Boer meat goats, LaManchas, and Nubians.

The dairy shows posted the following results:

Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program Launches Outdoor Advertising

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) is working to increase dairy product demand through a local outdoor media-advertising program that supplements the national and regional advertising plan, also funded by PDPP. Through its affiliation with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East and Dairy Management, Inc. (DMI), PDPP is part of the unified marketing plan for dairy promotion.

"PDPP knows we have consumers in many areas of the state. In addition to the national and regional media advertising in the larger markets, we have outdoor advertising in some of the smaller markets as well," said Karl Kroeck, chairman of the PDPP.

The outdoor advertising takes place from June through September since there is an abundance of traffic due to summer travel during this time. PDPP manages its checkoff programs as efficiently as possible, always looking for the most bang for their buck, thus conducting the outdoor advertising when more people will be outdoors to see it.

Billboards in 45 locations were posted in June sporting the Dixie Chicks milk mustache. In August, Olympic gold medalist and dairy farmer Rulon Gardner was featured. Billboards can be seen in Potter, McKean, and Tioga counties and in the Erie and Johnstown/Altoona markets.

PDPP contracts with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East, which is the local planning and management organization responsible for increasing demand for U.S.-produced dairy products on behalf of America's dairy farmers. ADADC Mid East works closely with Dairy Management, Inc.™, the national dairy promotion organization, to implement dairy promotion, education, and research programs nationwide.

TESTING SILAGES

Tim Beck
Capitol Region Extension
Dairy Program Coordinator

Silage harvest will begin soon in some areas. It's time to be thinking about how you'll evaluate the nutritional value of this year's crop.

Forage testing is absolutely essential to provide a balanced ration for the dairy herd. But beyond the basic tests available, there are many other options to consider using when special circumstances arise.

Drought conditions in some locations make it worth considering a nitrate test so that cutting height may be adjusted upward where high nitrates may be present in the crop. During times when rainfall is abundant, it's helpful to check the sugar content of the crop, since heavily eared corn is less likely to have soluble sugars present in the leaves and stalk as they have been used to produce grain.

Many labs offer a standard analysis package that will assess dry matter, crude protein, protein fractions, acid and neutral detergent fiber, and many of the macro and trace minerals. Frequently producers conduct the standard set of forage tests, balance accordingly, and still encounter poor cow performance.

Tim Beck

Many issues may be involved, but frequently poor digestibility of forage crops and overestimated energy values are part of the problem. Fiber digestibility varies from year to year based on how much fiber is bound to lignin and therefore is indigestible to the cow.

Just knowing how much lignin is present doesn't tell the story. We must use procedures such as in vitro (in test tube) digestibility analysis to get a picture of how much fiber can actually be digested in a given forage sample. During in vitro testing, forage samples are incubated in rumen fluid under controlled conditions and the amount of fiber disappearance is measured.

Today's more sophisticated rumen modeling programs, such as the Cornell Net Carbohydrate and Protein System (CNCPS) and the latest NRC for Dairy Cattle, attempt to estimate the energy value of forages more accurately. To use CNCPS correctly, a producer must request some additional testing. Neutral detergent insoluble nitrogen (NDIN) and acid detergent insoluble nitrogen (ADIN) must be included in the testing regime to use these tools effectively.

Some labs offer a CNCPS package that provides the additional data. Rather than just using book values for energy, these programs calculate the energy value of forages based on more extensive test results than those used in previous ration balancing approaches.

Enzymatic starch and sugar tests may be used to more accurately assess the "true" nonstructural carbohydrate (NSC) present in a given diet. This can help the nutritionist assess and select supplemental energy sources in the diet to achieve a balance of fast, medium, and slowly digested carbohydrates.

When forages have elevated pH readings after fermentation or they have strong or unusual odors, consider a fermentation profile on the samples to assess how the forage fermented. The fermentation acids may help you identify what went wrong during the preservation process so the producer can make appropriate corrections for the next crop. Having soluble sugar checked before and after fermentation may tell a producer the odds for an undesirable fermentation in advance and just how much sugar remains in the forage when preservation is complete. When sugars are depleted during fermentation, the resulting forage has reduced energy value and must be supplemented appropriately.

Many of these testing options will require interpretation by a skilled nutritionist to properly interpret and apply the information to a dairy ration, but producers are encouraged to discuss these options with the herd's nutritionist. The dollars invested in some additional testing may return themselves many times over when "just the right combination" of ingredients can be identified.

More information on this topic may be found in the publication, Agronomy Facts 44, "Forage Quality Testing: Why, How, And Where," available from the local extension office or download a copy at http://www.agronomy.psu.edu/Extension/Facts/AgFacts.html To select a forage testing laboratory, refer to DAS 99-18, "Animal diagnostic, forage, and feed testing laboratories in the Northeast" available at http://www3.das.psu.edu/dcn/catforg/index.html

Corn Silage Whole-Plant Dry Down Rates[a]

Glenn A. Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, Lancaster, Pa.

Looks can be deceiving. This week, the better looking corn planted on May 1 was drier than the more severely fired corn planted on the same date. It appears that the droughty corn was less functional and matured more slowly than the healthier corn, as evidenced by milk line progression, and tended to retain more of its moisture than healthier plants that were more active and maturing more naturally. This May 1 planting is now dropping below the desired moisture levels for proper ensiling.

Estimating plant dry down by the amount of firing can be deceptive. Even though the dryer corn showed about 60% firing, the weight of the dry leaves represents only a small part of the plant's total weight and is not necessarily indicative of the amount of moisture that is retained in the stalk

This week a later planted sample of the same hybrid is added to the table This corn looks good. It is tall, green and well eared.

SRBC Urges Voluntary Water Conservation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - In support of the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection's (DEP) drought watch declaration for Central Pennsylvania, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC) is calling on water users to conserve water. DEP's current drought watch declaration covers 23 Central Pennsylvania counties, all of which are located entirely or partially in the Susquehanna River Basin: Adams, Bedford, Blair, Centre, Clinton, Columbia, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lycoming, Mifflin, Montour, Northumberland, Perry, Schuylkill, Snyder, Union and York.

SRBC Executive Director Paul Swartz noted that the entire Susquehanna basin has experienced below normal precipitation in 11 of the past 13 months. March and June of 2001 are the only months when above normal precipitation was recorded.

"This extended period of below normal precipitation has resulted in ground-water levels dropping below normal, streams flowing well below normal throughout the basin, and very dry soil conditions," said Swartz. "Each day, more and more streams in New York and Pennsylvania are dropping to record daily low flows and the list of communities imposing water restrictions or bans on burning has begun to grow."

Swartz said, "The drought indicators have clearly been reached and so the Commission strongly endorses DEP's drought watch declaration. We urge water users to voluntarily conserve water to help reduce the stresses on public water supplies and individual wells."

Water conservation tips for residential water users include:

- Not watering established lawns (grass goes dormant — does not die — during dry conditions);
- Sweeping sidewalks and driveways, not hosing them down;
- Selecting more drought-tolerant vegetation and plant species for landscaping and using mulch to retain soil moisture;
- Taking short showers instead of baths;
- Using dishwashers and washing machines only when filled to capacity;
- Not letting the water run continuously while shaving, brushing teeth or washing dishes by hand;
- Inspecting and repairing all leaking faucets, pipes, hoses and toilets; and
- Installing water conservation devices.

Water conservation tips for industrial/commercial facilities include:

- Inspecting plumbing fixtures for leaks and repairing all faulty piping;
- Installing water conservation devices and updating outdated plumbing fixtures;
- Implementing a water re-use program; and
- Installing best available water conservation technology.

For more water conservation tips and for SRBC's most recent Hydrologic Conditions report, look on SRBC's Website www.srbc.net.

The Susquehanna River Basin Commission is the governing agency established under a 100-year compact signed on Dec. 24, 1970 by the federal government and the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland to protect and wisely manage the water resources of the Susquehanna River Basin. The Susquehanna River starts in Cooperstown, N.Y. and flows 444 miles to Havre de Grace, Md., where the river meets the Chesapeake Bay.

More Than 45 Boars Offered At Performance Test, Sale

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced that Department has completed a successful boar test and sale.

The boar sale was conducted Aug. 15 at the Livestock Evaluation Center at State College in Centre County. This year, the Department offered 47 boars for purchase.

"This performance test and sale is a team effort. Through the dedication and hard work of department staff, the livestock technical committee, the sale committee, and staff professionals at Penn State University, we are able to support Pennsylvania's swine industry in their mission to maintain the highest quality possible. The Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council should also be commended for their support of Pennsylvania's Pork Industry," said Hayes.

The sale was preceded by an 84-day test period. Henry Halloway of Darlington, Md., owned the top-scoring pen with his trio of Yorkshire boars. Placing second on the performance test was the pen of Yorkshires owned by the Wilson Brothers of New Freedom. Rounding out the top three was Franklin Feeser of Taneytown, Md., with his Hampshire pen. For the Duroc breed, Cory Pfoutz, Lititz, had the highest scoring pen.

Forty-seven of the top scoring swine were offered for purchase. Selling for $1,100 and topping the sale were two boars owned by Henry Halloway of Darlington, Md. James and Jeanne Mathis of Julian, purchased one of the top-selling boars. The other high-selling boar was bought by Kenneth Jones of Danville.

Hayes also noted that excitement is beginning to build at the Livestock Evaluation Center as the Department of Agriculture is quickly approaching the construction phase on the new center at the Ag Research Station in Rockspring.

Schuylkill County Fair Conducts Sale Of Champion Livestock

DEANNA CUNFER
Carbon Co. Correspondent

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — The show barn was full as over 200 registered buyers bid on nearly 130 animals at the Schuylkill County Fair's 4-H Sale of Champion Livestock.

The sale got under way as Craig Luckenbil of Mountain View Supply bid $1,050 for one gallon of milk from the supreme dairy cow. The milk came packaged in two antique milk jugs and their carrier.

Leesport Farmer's Market then purchased a basket of dairy products for $55 followed by Rolling View Estates' purchase of $70 for a basket of items made from goat's milk. All proceeds from these preview sales go to various scholarship funds.

The livestock sale began with the purchase of the grand champion market steer by Hoss's Steak and Seafood for $1,600. Owner of "Cody," a 1,125-pound Angus, was Paul Shealer, 17, Auburn. Shealer was also named champion fitter and champion showman of the beef show and champion showman of the swine show at the fair.

The reserve champion steer, a 970-pound Limousin-Simmental cross, belonged to the reserve showman Sarah Zimmerman, 13, Pine Grove. This steer sold to Red Lion Cafe for $1,650.

The champion and reserve market hogs were both exhibited by Briana Shealer, 18, Auburn. Briana, a recent graduate of Blue Mountain High School will attend Penn State — Berks campus this fall studying Animal Science.

Not only did Briana exhibit the champion and reserve market swine, but her 118-pound Hampshire cross market lamb, "Raggedy Ann," received reserve champion market lamb honors. Champion fitter and reserve champion showman titles in the swine and market lamb shows also were awarded to Briana.

"Cleopatra," her champion market hog, was purchased by Pioneer Pole Buildings for $1,100.

Schaeffer's Harley-Davidson posted the winning bid at $900 for the reserve champion market hog. The reserve grand champion market lamb of Shealer was purchased for $600 by First National Bank of Fredericksburg.

The 110-pound Hampshire-Suffolk cross grand champion market lamb of Kori Morgan, 15, Pine Grove, was purchased by Rich Krieger of Mountain View Estates for $1,100.

Krieger, representing the Conservation District of Schuylkill County, was also the successful bidder at $700 for the 87-pound Boer-mixed grand champion market goat of Keith Kramer, 12, of Schuylkill Haven. Kramer attends Blue Mountain School District and will be in seventh grade.

The reserve champion market goat, a home-bred Boer cross weighing 74 pounds, owned by Isaac Schaeffer, 9, Bernville was sold to Bill's Produce Market for $450.

In her first year with the dairy beef project Naomi Schaeffer, 18, of Bernville, a recent home-schooled graduate of the Tulpehocken School District exhibited the grand champion dairy beef and was also named champion fitter and reserve showman of the dairy beef competition.

The 590-pound Holstein was purchased from her employer, Way-Har Farms. Schaeffer was also champion showman and reserve fitter of the market goat show. Schaeffer sold her champion dairy beef to Hometown Farmers' Market for $1,300.

The reserve champion dairy beef, a 640-pound home-bred Holstein of Joshua Miller, 16, of Tamaqua, sold to Chas. S. Snyder Inc. for $1,025.

Grand champion market steer of Schuylkill County Fair. The steer of Paul Shealer, Auburn, was purchased by Hoss's Steak and Seafood for $1,600.

BANGOR (Northampton Co.) — The spectators weren't the only ones to appreciate the pleasant weather during the Plainfield Farmers' Fair 4-H Swine Show. The cooler weather was also a welcome change to the four-legged contestants as they grunted and raced around the ring before judge Ron Miller, Bernville, fair fund administrator with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA).

Fortunately for champion showman Sarah Geiger, who first won the senior showman competition, her hog took the event in stride, enabling Geiger to concentrate on her showing techniques. Reserve showman honors went to

Preserve Board And Farmland Trust Jointly Preserve 350 Acres

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Three separate properties in West Hempfield Township comprised of an 85-acre farm and a 98-acre farm owned by Daniel and Dorothy Forry, and a 59-acre farm owned by E. B. and Susan Abel, have been preserved. An additional 104-acre property, owned by the Abels, is scheduled to be preserved next year as part of the same project, which will create a 350-acre contiguous tract of farmland.

Forry grew up on the 98-acre family farm on which he and his wife currently live. They raise replacement heifers, goats, and use the land to grow crops.

The four properties, located west of Lancaster city, north of Route 30 just after the Prospect Road exit, are important to preserve because of their extensive road frontage, proximity to other development, excellent soils, and rare large critical mass. A great deal of the acreage is visible from Route 30, and this tract of land is one of the few remaining along Route 30 that has not been converted to industrial, commercial or residential use.

This is the second joint preservation project between Lancaster Farmland Trust and the Agricultural Preserve Board this year, and fourth overall. The impetus for the majority of these partnerships has been that the farms are under urgent development pressure and must be preserved more quickly than the Ag Preserve Board can accommodate (due to their waiting list), but at a higher cost than the Trust can provide.

"The Agricultural Preserve Board is pleased to be part of this cooperative effort to preserve a large tract of productive farmland in a critical location," said Ag Preserve Board director, June Mengel. "Our hope is that in the future there will be interest on behalf of the landowners to preserve contiguous tracts in this area."

The Forrys have purchased the Abel's 59-acre property, and plan to purchase their 104-acre property in 2002. The couple became interested in purchasing the properties seven years ago when their youngest son Dwight, a senior majoring in large animal science at Delaware Valley College, informed his parents of his interest in farming. Dwight will be the fifth generation to farm the Forry land.

Heidi Schellenger, director of land preservation for the Trust, was instrumental in helping the Forrys in their quest to preserve their farms and acquire the additional property.

"I've wanted to preserve these farms for almost as long as I've worked for the Trust. Last year, when I first heard whispers of an interested neighbor who might be able to buy the two tracts and preserve everything, I didn't dare dream that it might actually happen," said Schellenger. "I'm extremely grateful to the Forrys and to realtor Ken Greider for being persistent and working with the Ag Preserve Board and us to make their dream — and mine — a reality."

This preservation brings the total number of farms preserved by the Trust to 131, covering 8,528 acres.

USDA Rules For Scrapie Eradication

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA published the rules for the Scrapie Eradication Program August 21 in the Federal Register.

It has established a list of states that conduct effective state scrapie control programs and has established new interstate movement, identification, and indemnity requirements. All 50 states have agreed to abide the new regulations.

This final rule will require identification of mature sheep, breeding sheep, and breeding goats moving interstate and will reinstate an indemnity program for certain sheep and goats affected by scrapie.

Producers who move sheep and goats in interstate commerce should contact their local USDA Veterinary Services office to have tag numbers assigned.

The compliance date for all requirements to identify animals that are not scrapie-positive animals, suspect animals, high-risk animals, exposed animals, or animals from an infected or source flock is Nov. 19.

Lou Ann In Poland

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

Poland — Thursday, August 23: Traveling to Poland sounded so exciting, but when the day came to kiss my husband goodbye, I became a bit teary-eyed. However, Parke said, "What is three weeks of separation out of a lifetime of marriage?"

Team members were departing from three different airports (I from Philadelphia) and were to meet in Paris. On the flight there, I had planned on catching up on some much needed sleep but instead seemed to be eating constantly with the various meals and snacks that were served during the seven-hour plane ride.

In Paris, I met the other eight travelers who were to accompany me. Although it was only the second time I had met the team members, we immediately seemed like old friends — I guess a strange country can do that. Within two hours we flew out of Paris, with sunny weather, bound for Warsaw, Poland. The French patchwork terrain below us very much resembled Pennsylvania landscape.

After an unexpectedly bumpy flight, Marcena, an interpreter throughout our stay, greeted us. Two van drivers accompanied her and we quickly retrieved our luggage, grateful that all of it had arrived with us.

Thinking we would be able to get some rest at the hotel, we were instead taken on a whirlwind tour of Warsaw. As long as we walked a brisk pace, I felt wide awake, but if we sat to listen to some history of the sites, I sometimes felt my eyes closing despite the interesting account. At the end of the day, I realized I had been awake for 27 hours.

In Warsaw, we walked through beautiful paths of the Royal Park, and admired the Palace on the Water, the serene river, and wide variety of towering trees, and fragrant roses. Many sculptures revealed bits of historical significance.

I don't know of a park with as much beauty and historical significance in Pennsylvania. We toured the Old Town Market Square, which had been totally destroyed during WWII.

A pork dish served during one of the many full-course meals served to the group.

Polish churches remained open and active despite Communist rule.

Poland was once known as the breadbasket of Europe and was capable of feeding 100 million before it became deficient under communist management.

In comparison to other Communist countries, Poland had few collective farms. It is reported that 97 percent of their farmland was individually owned.

But the communist rule stifled their chances of being productive. Each family was assigned a small plot. Their land was too small to make it profitable for them to buy tractors and other equipment. And their plots were separated from their neighbors so that it was impractical for them to band together and purchase large equipment.

Extension services have played a vital role in helping Poland in its transition from communism to a democracy. In 1989, USDA established the joint effort with the Polish Ministry of Agriculture and Food Economy (MAFE).

For the first six years of the program, extension agents were appointed to six-month assignments to live in Poland.

Darwin Braund, extension agent who lived in Poland for six months in 1995, said, "Our goal was to improve living standards of Polish farmers and consumers by helping them emerge a strong, effective, and economically successful private sector of Poland."

In Poland, extension services are called Osrodek Doradztwa Rolniczego (ODR). I was surprised to hear that ODR was active during the communist era. However they ODRs catered mostly to the state farms. When the country became a democracy, a complete overhaul of the program took place.

Time was required until the Polish people placed trust in the ODR.

According to Braund, ODRs are located in each of the 49 provinces of Poland and up to 11 regional offices can be found in a province.

Of special interest to the U.S. entourage is to find out how Poland's farm vacation project has become so successful. They started out with only three farms participating several years ago, but have grown to include more than 100 farms. In the states, the farm vacations continue to struggle despite enthusiastic reports from those who try it.

In addition to the programs extension agents will be presenting, the team will be touring farms, including pig, ostrich, fish, cabbage, and others. We will be there during its largest agricultural fair, so it will be interesting to see how it compares with our state fair.

We will be meeting with state officials and local authorities to discuss supporting ag enterprises. A salt mine and a German concentration camp are some other stops.

I plan to present features and a diary of events called "Lou Ann In Poland," which should appear weekly.

So, until next week, "Do Zobaczenia! (Good Day)."

Darwin Braund lived in Poland for six months to assist in the Polish and American Extension Project, which he describes in his book, "Tomorrow Finally Came!"

The Polish people painstakingly sorted through rubble to find pieces to restore the town to its original beauty. It is difficult to believe such a ravaged place could be restored by people who had lost everything themselves.

It is said homes were taxed according to the number of windows that are in front of the home. Consequently one narrow home had only two facing the town square but is reported to be quite spacious from the side where it faces another street— the innovative person, throughout the centuries, can always discover a tax loophole.

The town square and surrounding streets are lined with outdoor cafes. Cobblestones, bricks, marble and a variety of sturdy stones form large walkways and streets. We arrived at the Poswietne in Plonsk in time for dinner.

The table was set with white linens, china and a colorful array of foods. Hungrily we devoured molded individual salads of chicken and peas, tomatoes with onions, pork medallions filled with plum jam, sliced ham, pickled herring, and rye bread.

When we were stuffed, we thought we would be dismissed. Imagine our surprise when we were served a full course dinner. A plate of angel hair pasta was passed around followed by a tureen of chicken broth that was poured over the pasta to make delicious soup.

A plateful of decorated cakes was passed around and after we indulged against the prompting of full stomachs, the hostesses served us ice cream with fresh strawberries.

We learned that the place we were staying, called a hotel, was actually owned by the Ag Advisory Center. The clean facilities were quite comfortable. Employees of the ag center, similar to extension offices in the states, live on the grounds in flats.

The director said Poswietne is the biggest district with six million people. The center was established in 1928 and is the oldest center in Europe. It was given as a gift from a church.

Although the center was always meant to serve as an advisory/information source to farmers, it became apparent when Poland became a free country in 1920 that they were not achieving the same production as the West. The National Ag Advisory worked hard to increase production and to clean water, soil, and air pollution.

After 26 hours without sleep, I was glad to retire.

Saturday, Aug. 25: Breakfast was at 8 a.m. Delightful with crusty breads, cheese, tomatoes with onions, juice, cereal, and some hot dish which I can't recall.

We traveled to Urzad Miasta and Pultusk, which I have written about in separate articles on businesses. Every place we go, they feed us, even business tours of the factories. Always the food is wonderful and attractively arranged and served on china set on linen cloths.

They make us special U.S. coffee since most Americans do not like Polish coffee in which the grinds fill half the cup. They also provide plenty of bottled water because they know Americans are big water drinkers.

We are impressed that women always wear high heels. The teen-age and 20 something's dress in European styles of skimpy tops, tight Capris or

Drought Watch Expanded To Include 22 Additional Counties

Drought watch in effect for 45 counties

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Recently Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Secretary David E. Hess expanded Pennsylvania's drought watch to include 22 additional counties.

"We're urging residents in these additional 22 counties to voluntarily cut back their water use because the generally hot and dry weather during July and August has caused a rapid decline of our groundwater supplies," Secretary Hess said.

"Simply put, it hasn't rained, and so our water supplies aren't being replenished.

Secretary Hess noted that, since August 2000, precipitation deficits in the 22 additional counties range from about nine to 14 inches. The bulk of this deficit accumulated in July and August.

The counties added to the drought watch are: Armstrong, Berks, Bradford, Butler, Cambria, Cameron, Chester, Clarion, Clearfield, Crawford, Elk, Erie, Forest, Indiana, Jefferson, McKean, Mercer, Potter, Sullivan, Tioga, Venango and Warren.

On Aug. 8, Secretary Hess issued a drought watch for 23 counties in Central Pennsylvania.

"Under a drought watch, residents are asked to cut back their water usage by fivew percent, or about three to five gallons per person a day," Secretary Hess said.

"So use water with common sense, and follow this rule of thumb — if you don't need to have the tap running, turn it off."

Direct Marketing And Grazing Meetings Set

BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — David Hartman of Penn State extension in Columbia County has announced two grazing/direct marketing meetings scheduled for the Central Susquehanna region.

The first will be conducted at the commercial beef farm of Mike Percoskie near Herndon in Northumberland Co. on Sept. 11 at 6:00 p.m.

The meeting will include a dinner, pasture walk, and presentations on Percoskie's pasture and hay operation.

Visitors are asked to wear footwear other than that normally worn around animals at home. Plastic pullover boots will be available at the farm.

The meeting is approved for one core and one category credit for pesticide license renewal. License holders are urged to bring their licenses to the meeting.

Directions to the Percoskie farm: From Route 140 in Herndon, turn east onto East Pottsville St. at the post office. Follow this road for about 1.5 miles to the Percoskie driveway, located on a hard corner. Meeting signs will be posted.

To register for this meeting, call Northumberland Co. Conservation District at (570) 286-7114 by Sept. 4. There is no charge for the meeting.

A second meeting will be conducted at Forks Farm near Orangeville, Columbia Co.

John Hopkins of Forks Farm and Joel Salatin of Swoope, Virginia will offer a tour of Hopkin's grass-based livestock operation and details on developing a direct marketing customer base.

Salatin is a pioneer in the field of direct marketing and grass-based livestock production.

Lunch will be available for a nominal fee. There is no fee for the meeting.

Call the Pennsylvania Association of Sustainable Agriculture at (814) 349-9856 to register.

Directions to the Forks Farm: Take Route 487 north from I-80 at Exit 236 (old exit 35) Lightstreet. Travel about six miles on Route 487 through Orangeville. Continue ahead on 487 at the detour. About three miles north of Orangeville, turn right immediately after Hickory Joe's Restaurant. Travel 1.6 miles to farm sign on left.

Diary From Poland

bell-bottomed pants, but always with high platform shoes. The women who appear to be over 20 seem always to be dressed in stylish dresses that are in styles most Americans would reserve for special occasions.

They wear high heels, often spikes. They walk with ease and far distances, but are always smiling although we American guests groan with the pain their feet must feel.

Their haircuts are very American. The men and teen-age boys do not seem to be dressed as stylish. Their fashions are varied, but often double knit pants and a plain, polyester shirt.

This is the month of weddings and we were privileged to observe two. One was in a large cathedral. Visitors tour the famous church while the wedding progresses.

Every wedding guest is dressed in great style and most guests carry flowers to present to the couple. Their weddings require two days of celebration. A wedding reception was in progress in the Ag Advisory Hall. They danced all night. We watched them for awhile.

They were quite energetic and enthusiastic. Food and drink is served often throughout the night. In the morning breakfast was served. We saw the bride and her mother cleaning up the hall after the guests departed. We were told guests went home for a few hours sleep but will gather around noon again to eat, dance and celebrate. Imagine that expense.

We stopped to view the advisory center in Pultusk and were greeted by ODR employees. They served us a full course dinner although we were scheduled elsewhere for the evening meal.

Smiling in appreciation, team members indulged, impressed by the variety and taste. We wished they would hand out recipes. Because we cannot converse with them, we are not able to determine how the dishes are prepared.

Again and again, we think we are eating the main course only to be followed by more and more food.

Then it's off to a campfire at an agrotourism farm and supper. We moan about the pounds we are gaining. But it is impolite to refuse food. Not that we want to because it tastes so good. I like it better than American food.

The campfire seems rather American and they grill superb pork and bratwurst.

Our stomachs are much too full.

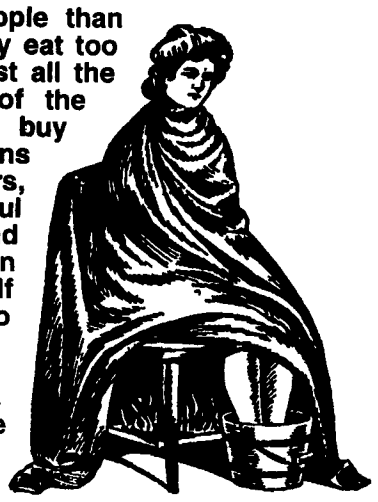
Why Be Sick And Tired?

America has more sick people than most countries, because they eat too much cooked food which lost all the enzymes and up to 80% of the nutrition. Most food you buy contains harmful toxins because they use weed killers, insecticides and many harmful chemicals in growing it, and then more chemicals in processing to increase shelf life. But there is a solution to the problem.



Be Healthy And Energetic?

May doctors and people are now using a new and safer way to remove toxins and poisons from the body, clean out the arteries and develop a strong immune system so it can fight off diseases with amazing results, without any drugs. This program supplies the immune system with killer cells, memory and suppresser cells activity and training, which is like manpower and equipment to any army. It provides the immune system with all natural, organically grown fruit, grain and vegetables" which is like good food and ammunition to an army.

Over 40 million dollars were spent in research, and over 3000 sheets of scientific documented studies by doctors supports many positive clinical experiences, and backs up the patented process in providing proven products. The cost is considerable less than drugs, chelation, radiation, chemotherapy and operations. It does NOT interfere with medication. There are now viruses that can not be stopped with antibiotics, but these all natural products are producing excellent results with supervision from doctors.

Over 3000 Doctors Have Already Switched

They have switched from drugs to alternative medicine in order to help people recover from cancer, heart attacks, arthritis diabetes, lupus, fibromyalgia, allergies, fatigue and many other health problems without any side effects. We make no health claims. We work with doctors in giving the body all natural food grade products it needs to heal itself. There is also a Prevention Program to help you from getting sick. "An ounce of prevention costs far less, and is so much better than a pound of cure" (doctor and hospital bills). Which would you prefer, $149 a year to help prevent a heart attack, or a $50,000 by pass operation? The choice is yours. Let us try to help you prevent health problems.

Bedford Livestock Sale Results

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — The grand champion steer brought $3 a pound, giving young Randy Koontz $3,870 a start towards his college tuition at Penn State University. Classes begin in a few weeks and Koontz will be majoring in education and agriculture.

His 1,290 pound black angus was bought by Willard Campbell of Hoss's Steak and Sea House. A frisky animal, Campbell wondered why the steer didn't like him.

"Maybe it's because you own a steak house," quipped the auctioneer.

Nikki Smith of New Enterprise didn't mind seeing her crossbred market hog sell for $7.25. "I look at my college tuition bill and I know right where the money will go," she said.

She is a senior at Allegany Community College where she is studying to be a medical assistant. The hog was purchased by Kendall, Prebola and Jones, an accounting firm, who purchased many animals throughout the sale.

Ray Hemminger, owner of Hemminger Auto and Truck of Somerset, bought his granddaughter's grand champion Polled Dorset lamb for $19 a pound. All smiles, Meghan Barkley is obviously the apple of her granddad's eye. She had good reason to smile. In addition to the money, she gets to keep her lamb.

The grand champion 70 pound goat, owned by Tanner Waltemire, was bought by Thomas Chevrolet for $12.

Dr. Marc Finder purchased the dairy basket for $2,100. Finder, a steady sale attender and bidder, buys the basket and distributes the dairy products to fellow workers at the UPMC Memorial Hospital.

C. A. Detwiler sold his reserve champion steer to Bedford Chrysler for $1.50. Greta Snider's reserve lamb went to Hoss's for $6.

The home bred champion steer owned by John Claycomb went to R. L. Insulation for a winning bid of $1.20.

First runner-up fair queen, Kristin Mirfin, sold her county-bred champion steer to her employer, Harry A. Snyder for $1.40.

The reserve champion hog, owned by Ashley Koontz went to Bracken Ridge Veterinary Clinic for $4.75. Kendall, Prebola and Jones bought the reserve goat for $4.

Those with only a carcass to sell also did well. Jennifer Troutman got $3.75 for a 157 pound hog carcass from Bedford Chrysler. Brett Bowser took home $3 for his 160 pound reserve grand champion swine carcass.

Ben Kendall purchased the grand champion lamb carcass for $6 giving Jonathan May $372. "Uncle" Roy Kegg paid $5 for the 70 pound reserve champion lamb carcass of Kyler Myers.

Many animals were bought and donated back to the auction, or to charities.

Despite a sagging economy, it was the best sale ever. In 1999, the auction brought more then $165,000 while last year, the total was only $144,153.

Greta Snider, left and Meghan Barkley show off their reserve and grand champion lambs. Greta received $6 and Meghan got $19 from her grandfather and then got to keep her lamb. Meghan is the daughter of Brian and Melanie Barkley and Gretta's parents are Bruce and Lori Snider.

Nikki Smith got $7.25 for her grand champion market hog. Also pictured is her father, George.

Farming Along Major Highways

traveled has also steadily increased, with a peak of more than 240 billion miles traveled in July 2000.

To deal with this increase in the number of vehicles on the road, Beam has taken several precautions. Since he raises small grains, he uses tractor - trailers to move the harvested crop from the field to its final destination. A wood shavings delivery service on the side has helped the Beam family purchase better trucks which are also used in the production side of the operation.

He also takes into consideration which fields he can plant higher volume crops in.

"We won't plant wheat in some places because you can't get in to get the straw off of there," he said. "I've turned some land that was offered to me to rent down because of the traffic situation."

They also run escort vehicles equipped with yellow flashing lights whenever possible.

"When we run on real narrow highways, we'll give the escorts a red flag to stop traffic when we need to."

He also makes sure his equipment is in top shape, is clearly marked with slow-moving vehicle signs, and that his insurance policies are always up to date.

"We're constantly updating our liability policy just in case something happens," he said. "Each piece of equipment is listed separately on the policy."

Even with taking every precaution, Beam still has had his share of conflicts with traffic, mostly because of impatient drivers.

"With most accidents, there are impatient people behind us. They try to pass and run into the machinery or into the ditch," he said.

Most recently, a teen-ager ran a stop sign and hit his corn planter.

"It demolished the vehicle," said Beam, "but the planter wasn't damaged."

In the past, Beam has also received traffic citations for traveling too slowly or disrupting the flow of traffic.

"A policeman once told me that if I get more than three cars behind me, I have to pull over and let them pass. I try to be reasonable and pull over when I can, but if I pulled over whenever three cars got behind me, I'd never get anywhere."

Beam is not the only farmer in the state to have been pulled over by a policeman. Charles Kalinowski, Tunkhannock, Wyoming County, also had an eye-opening experience early this summer as he traveled along a well-traveled highway with a tractor and sprayer.

"I had to travel a two-mile stretch. When the policeman saw me, I had 10 cars behind me, but they had just caught up to me."

Up until then, Kalinowski didn't realize that you could receive a ticket for traveling too slowly.

"There's a law out there," he said. "Having that slow-moving vehicle sign on the back of my equipment warns people that I'm going slowly, but it doesn't give me the right to hold up traffic."

Kalinowski appealed the ticket and the citation was later repealed.

But the challenge remains. Farmers work more and more ground that is located farther and farther away from their homesteads, making travel on roadways a necessity.

Trooper Linette Quinn, public information coordinator for the Pennsylvania State Police, agrees that farming along the highway presents many challenges.

"Traveling on the roadway can be frustrating for farmers. We ask them to be extra careful for their own safety whenever they're traveling between farms. We also ask them to give the courtesy of getting off the road and letting people pass," she said.

Quinn noted that Section 3364 of the vehicle code specifically says that a driver of a vehicle "who is traveling at less than the maximum posted speed and at such a slow speed as to impede the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, the driver shall, at first opportunity, when and where it is reasonable and safe to do so, and after giving appropriate signal, drive completely off the roadway and on to the berm or shoulder of the highway."

Besides urging farmers to follow the vehicle code as closely as possible, she also offers these tips to make driving on the highway safer.

"Make sure you can be easily seen," she said. "Make sure all your lighting equipment is working and that you have the triangles on the back. You should also make sure you have some mirrors. If there are a number of cars behind you, pull off the road as far as you can when it's safe to do so."

But the challenge of moving slow-moving vehicles on the highway remains.

'We're at a time in our society where everyone is mainstream. They're not looking for someone to slow them down," said Trooper Quinn. "People are always on the go, and when they're ready to get there, they want to get there."

For Bill Beam, traffic and encroaching development may take its toll.

"I hope there's enough here for me to farm out my lifetime, but if my boys want to farm, I'm not really sure what we'll do. We have no intentions to sell, though. We'll stick it out," said Beam.

If Beam could give one message to other drivers it would be this: "Have some patience!"

the survival of our co-op.

A merger at this time would not benefit the members of Maryland and Virginia. Working joint ventures would be acceptable. In my opinion, selling off assets and dissolving the co-op is better than a merger with Land O'Lakes, considering their treatment to members after mergers. By dissolving our co-op, at least each member would control their equity assets and their own destiny!

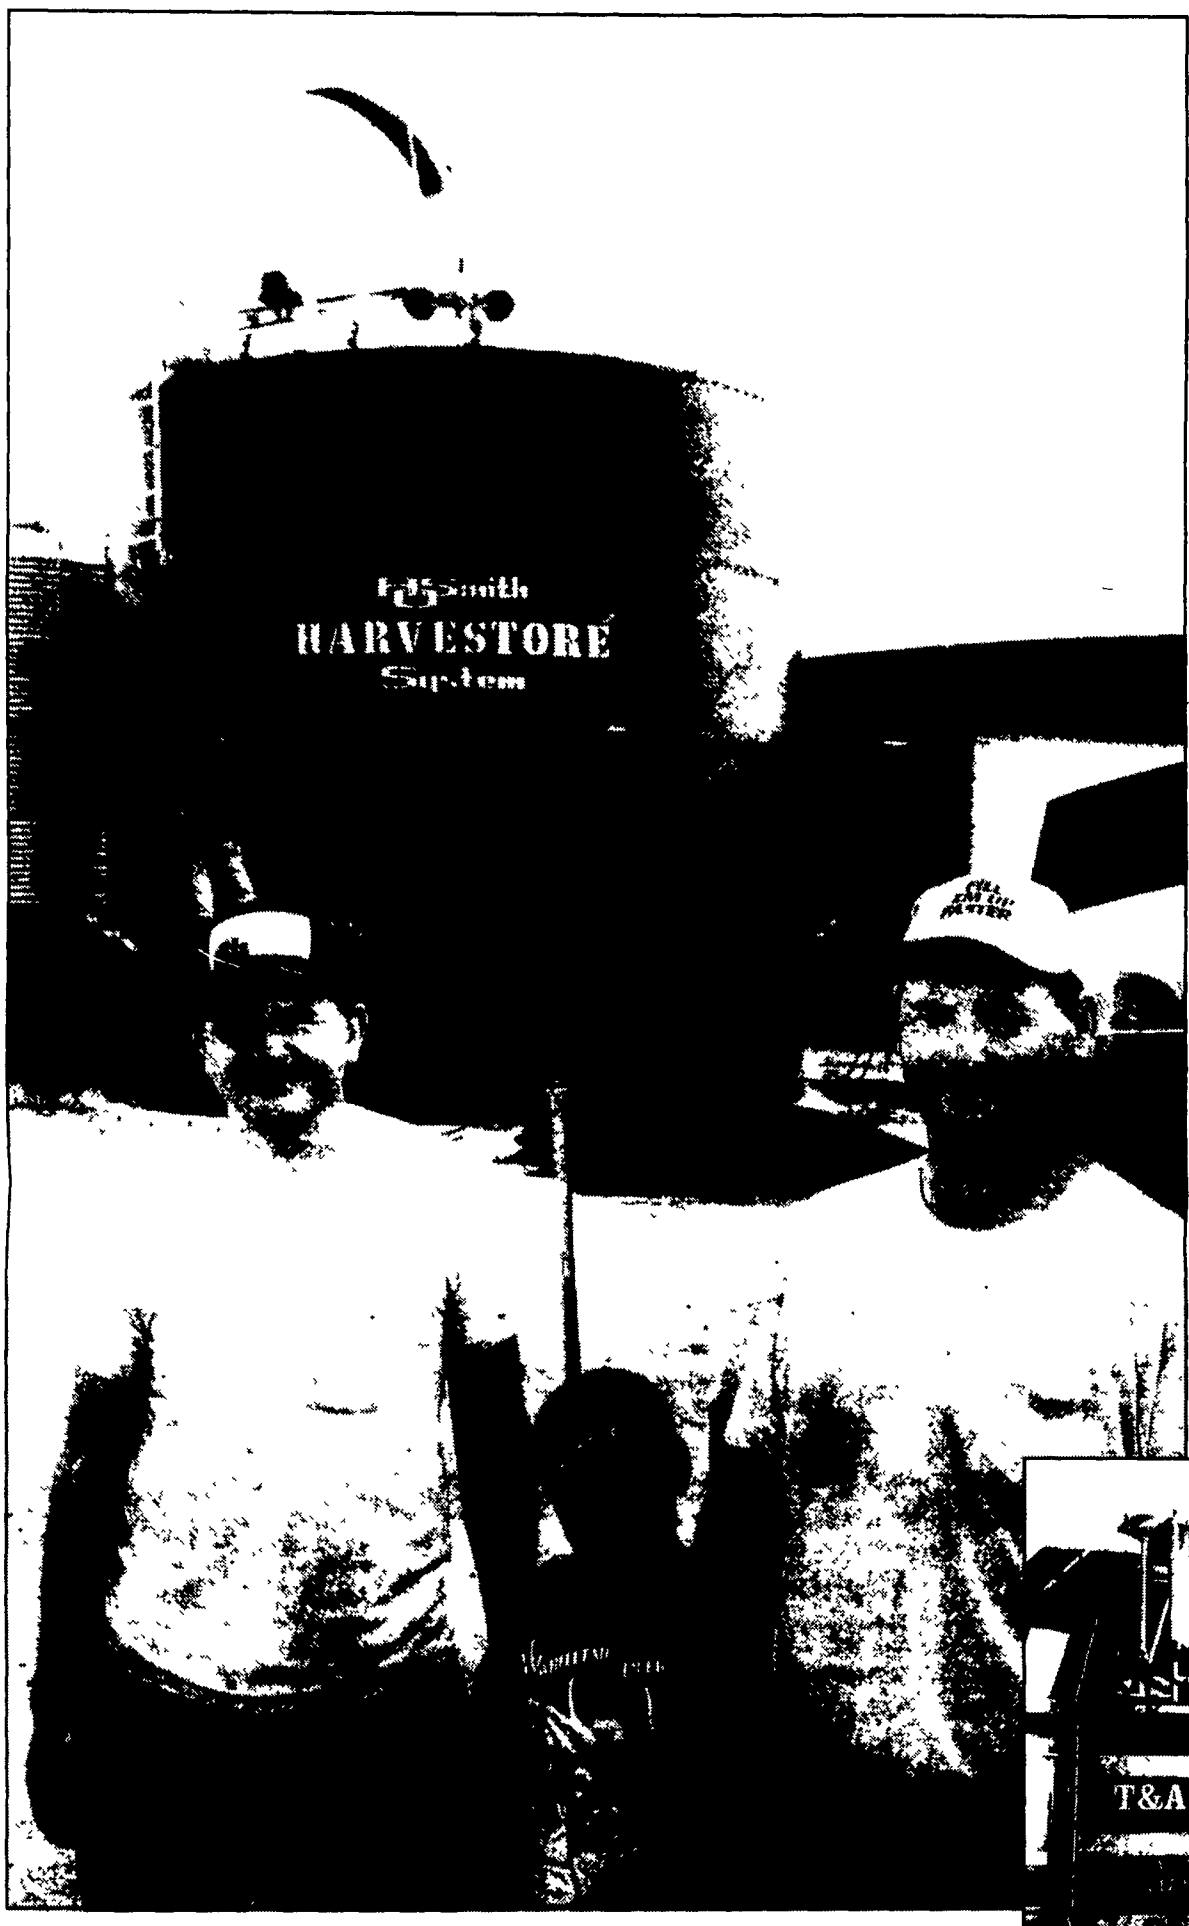
Expecting Great Results!



Allen (left) & Tom Morton with Allen's son Zachary

Tom and Allen Morton of T&A Farms, Needmore, PA, consider building their 62x19 Slurrystore® last summer one of the best investments they ever made. They have realized labor savings, lower fertilizer costs and excellent crop growth this year. After visiting several farms where Penn Jersey built a Harvestore® structure for high moisture grain and being impressed with the outcome, they decided to have a 20x38 erected for this year's corn crop and are expecting the same type of great results!

ADD PIZZAZZ

Steak sauce is famous for adding that tangy, one-of-a-kind steakhouse flavor to burgers and steaks. Serve it on the side, or add an extra ingredient or two to make a flavorful basting sauce. For best results, baste during the last few minutes of grilling. Try these easy combinations.

- Thai-Style—add sesame oil and peanut butter.
- Citrus—add lemon, lime or orange juice.
- Zesty—add sautéed chopped onion and salsa.

Marinades come in several flavors, ready to add special taste to steaks after marinating as little as 30 minutes.

Hickory marinade imparts a bold taste of hickory smoke in tandem with the tangy flavor of steak sauce. Classic Steakhouse does what the name says it provides steakhouse flavor in every bite.

Use these versatile marinades as a timesaving jump-start to other delicious marinades, even salad dressings, sauces or sandwich spreads.
Add herbs, green onions, salsa, vegetable oil, citrus juices, minced garlic, soft cream cheese, sour cream, chopped fresh tomatoes, soy sauce or other favorite ingredients.

LABOR DAY GRILLING ... EASY & DELICIOUS

BEEF BASICS

- Always marinate in the refrigerator, never at room temperature. Never save and reuse a marinade that has been in contact with raw meat
- Use medium temperature coals (or the equivalent on an electric or gas grill) If the grill is too hot, beef can char on the outside before the inside is cooked to the desired doneness
- To determine doneness, insert an instant-read thermometer into the steak or burger near the end of cooking time, check the temperature.
- Cook burgers to medium (160°F) doneness or until the centers are no longer pink and the juices show no pink color.
- Cook steaks to an internal temperature of at least medium rare (145°F) doneness. To visually check the doneness of a boneless steak, make a small cut near the center of the steak and check the color. For bone-in steaks, make a small cut near the bone. At medium rare, the center is very pink, turning slightly brown toward the outside portion.
- Refrigerate leftovers (or put in a cooler with ice packs) promptly after serving, within two hours of cooking or less time if outdoors. If in doubt, throw it out.

For a free instant-read thermometer, send your name and address to National Cattlemen's Beef Association; Dept. FCFSO; P.O. Box 670; Bloomingdale, IL 60108-0670. One per customer while supplies last.

Ida's Notebook

Labor Day Weekend! Long ago it was the week to start back to school. Now I hear that some of our grandchildren have already gone to school for two weeks.

Preparation for school was rather simple when I started high school. My mother took me and two of her old Sunday dresses to a dressmaker in a nearby village. Here the lady measured me and without a pattern, made two dresses for me to wear. I usually needed a new pair of shoes. And, I remember one year that my parents bought me a pair of boys ankle high work shoes. It was so embarrassing to wear those brown shoes, but I did as I was told.

We didn't need to buy school supplies as we were given a big tablet and a pencil at school. Never do I remember having a book bag to carry things. My oval blue tin lunch box is still stored in my house.

We walked in all kinds of weather unless a kind neighbor brought a car for his children. My mother didn't drive and my father was too busy to get us. I surely made up for them as everyday I took our children to the school bus stop almost a mile from our home. And, I drove them to school activities, 4-H meetings, and music lessons. Maybe I shouldn't have learned to drive, but we had a long farm lane and even getting the mail was a chore.

My two-room school had a furnace in the basement and a janitor so that the teachers did not have to tend the furnace. There was an indoor pump at the back of the school and of course, two outdoor toilets. When it rained, our recess took place in the dusty basement where there was a ground floor. What a sight we were when we came back to our desks. But, we probably learned our lessons as well as students in their big modern schools.

Harvest Hoedown

PHILADELPHIA — Grab your cowboy hat and kick up your heels as thousands celebrate homegrown bounty and competitors vie for ribbons at the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society's Philadelphia Harvest Show, "Harvest Hoedown," Sept. 15 and 16, at the Horticulture Center in Fairmount Park.

The Philadelphia Harvest Show, a city tradition since 1832, announces the arrival of autumn in a festive weekend of family fun, with exciting competitions, activities and displays.

Prize-winning fruits, vegetables, herbs, flowers, pressed plant designs, floral arrangements, baked goods and preserved products all set the stage for this "Country Fair" of successful summer growing. Visitors can attend a variety of educational exhibits and hear guest speakers who will offer free lectures and demonstrations. Youth activities will include pumpkin painting and daily parades, along with competition categories that includes succulents, vegetables, sunflowers, dish gardens, terrariums, annuals, perennials, container gardens and preserved products. A mini-village with seasonal gifts, tools, clothes, furniture, orchids, bonsai, scented soaps, and gardening supplies will be open with more than 50 marketplace shops, complete with a Garden Cafe for lunch or a light snack.

Special events this year will include the second annual "vegetables-on-wheels" race, trick roping and square dancing. Visitors will witness history in the making as the Guiness Book of World Records officiates the fastest pumpkin-carving attempt ever. And Beekeeper Robert Harvey, a Harvest Show legend, will don his massive "bee-beard" and demonstrate hive maintenance techniques.

The Philadelphia Harvest Show will be conducted Saturday, Sept. 15, and Sunday, Sept. 16, at the Horticulture Center on Horticulture Drive in Fairmount Park, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Admission is $6 for adults and $2 for children ages two to 12.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

As we humans go about our daily labors and responsibilities, most of us relentlessly watch for that which makes our jobs easier, more efficient, more productive. Laborsaving devices, if you will.

Well, mebbe.

Our house has 'em. No doubt yours does too. Society's eager embrace of laborsaving devices, gadgets and gimmicks has developed whole new industries, sometimes spiraling creative inventors of them into the 10-figure personal wealth level.

Not having a "real" job which gives me a paid holiday off this weekend, I always find myself relating Labor Day to this new, improved stuff which makes our lives less complicated.

One of our early laborsavers in the kitchen was the dishwasher. Which turned up — more or less — under an early Christmas tree of ours in response to my adamant refusal to return to a tractor seat before the lunch dishes were cleaned up and put away. To this day, I dislike a sinkful of dirty dishes, but you can hide them very effectively in a dishwasher.

A microwave oven followed not too many years later, serving us faithfully until just a few years ago, when it nuked itself into oblivion. Most interesting is that it's replacement cost a fraction of the first one.

That is one particularly rewarding side of modern laborsavers. Mass production technology — and cheaper electronics — puts them within the reach of most households, another reason to celebrate Labor (saving devices) Day.

On the down side, if you will, we have few excuses for not getting all this stuff done. Stuff we maybe never even knew we needed to do or have before and now can't live without.

Like e-mail, faxing, VCR's voice messaging, pagers, and trying to respond to bombardment with more information than we have time to sort out. Not to mention having to learn to "program" even the simplest things, like a wrist watch.

No doubt, probably the largest labor management leap came when computerization crossed society's threshold. And today's brain "chips" have enabled downsizing bulky, backbreakers with just a few megs of memory to palm sized pieces with the storage space of a small library. Now we can take it all with us, even when what we really need more than anything is to get away from it all.

Just last week, after hooking up parts, plugs and assorted pieces of plastic attachments, I re-programmed myself to operate a new fax machine. Our first well-used one had begun drawing long black lines on each sheet it received or sent before finally giving up the ghost. Like others, we've gone from barely being acquainted with the word "facsimile" to not being able to live without a push-button, life-sized-version of it to transport instant information.

Not to mention the most — perhaps — ubiquitous development of all laborsaving improvements: the mobile phone. And while farmers adopt technology at a fairly fast rate — even while poking fun at it, mobile phones have proved as much a boon to agriculture as milking machines, GPS crop-tracking and round balers. I can actually track down The Farmer when he is off-site and some critical component — like a dead water pump or milking system glitch — develops and needs to be fixed now.

That, friends, is real progress.

The Farmer still chuckles about one day, not too long after I equipped him with a mobile phone for my peace of mind, when he realized he been shoved into a new level of accessibility. Picking up supplies, he was somewhat inwardly laughing at folks walking through the supply establishment talking on their cell phones. Until his rang with a message that a bearing had out on some piece of equipment at home and could he please pick one up on his way home.

Reality is, we got along for years without all this "stuff," and could again. If we had to. But the booming sales of new, improved, laborsaving gadgetry screams — loud and clear — that it isn't going to happen.

However, in observance of Labor Day, and really taking a little time to relax, excuse me while I unplug some of it for at least an hour or two.

Ag Progress Conducts 4-H Horse Skillathon

BECCA GREGOR
Penn State Correspondent

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Amid the din of nervous laughter and the smell of dusty horses comes the crackle of a loudspeaker: "Will the participants of the eight through 11 age group please approach the ring?"

Hope Bailey, 11, of Emporium, waits with her horse, "Allie," in line with other girls her age.

Bailey, along with 22 other young people, participated in the 4-H Equine Skillathon Aug. 16 at Penn State's Ag Progress Days. The Skillathon, co-sponsored by The Pennsylvania Quarter Horse Association and Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences Cooperative Extension, tests young equestrians' complete horse knowledge.

Not only do contestants show their horses in the ring, they also must answer a written test and identify objects relating to horses and horse care.

"I'm a little nervous," confessed Bailey, squinting into the sun from beneath her beige cowboy hat. "I'm most nervous about doing the pattern right," Bailey said, describing the steps that all contestants must follow exactly with their horse once in the ring. "Tell me the pattern," said Ken Bailey, Hope's father, and she did — perfectly.

Bailey and the other young participants visit about 12 shows a year, according to Ken and Sharon Bailey, who were delighted that their daughter had taken such a fancy to horses. The Baileys send Hope to the Elk County 4-H, where they said she has opened up as she found a passion in horses. "Hopie just kind of fit right in with them," said Sharon Bailey.

Meanwhile, Brooke Bricen, 14, of Weedville, prepared for her turn in the ring. Last year Bricen and her horse, "Billy Bixbee," won the 12-14 age bracket at the Skillathon.

Bricen brushed excess dust and dirt off of Billy's back and legs, while the horse struggled to reach a few branches of a nearby tree. Bricen scolded Billy, cleaning out Billy's mouth as well. "If her mouth was green that'd be the end of it," said Bethany Bricen, Brooke's older sister. "The judges are really strict."

And strict they are — since contestants must follow the pattern exactly, they lose points fast for small mistakes or flaws in appearance and posture. As Hope Bailey exited the ring, she exchanged words with Brooke Bricen: "Don't go over there," Hope said, pointing to a far corner of the ring, "that's where I went and it was wrong. You have to turn 180 and go back that way."

Bricen thanked her and smiled. Bailey smiled gently back, and walked Allie out of the immediate area.

But the 4-H has taught young equestrians about more than being competitors. It has given them an outlet for their energy and enthusiasm, and friends to share it with, some who they can talk with, and some who they can talk to. "I've been riding my whole life," said Rebecca Barnhart, 18, who has been showing horses since she was 7-years-old and participated in the 15-18 age bracket. "I like horses because they don't talk back — they're better to talk to than people."

And some 4-H'ers even pursue a career with horses as a result of their time competing. Barnhart will attend the University of Finley, Ohio, this fall to study pre-veterinary science and horsemanship. Her horse "Happy," will make the trip to Ohio as well.

Farm Women Soc. 14

Farm Women Society 14 enjoyed the last two meetings outdoors. On the evening of July 12, we met at the Tinney Pavilion in Strasburg for our traditional family picnic.

Hostesses Rhoda Landis, Ruth Kreider, and Mary Landis received the carry-in dishes. Lloyd Kreider led in a devotional. Ben Kauffman, known for his Abe Lincoln impersonations, entertained us with a new monologue, "Farm Talk."

On Aug. 8, hostesses Pauline Stoltzfus, Helen Herr, and Dorothy Musser prepared a lunch at Paradise Park, the place for this summer's meeting. After President Gladys/Eshbenshade conducted the meeting (calling for a devotional by Pauline Stoltzfus and reporting on the earning project at the Corn Maize, the group went to nearby Christ Home, where we took a tour of the facility home for children ages four through high school. A gift of paper supplies was given to the home.

Dan Jerchaw, a Manheim Township policeman, took time out on June 20 to come to the Farm and Home Center where our society was entertaining Farm Women Society 27 to give most helpful and educational safety tips and warnings. Be careful when using an ATM machine, since there is a rash of stealing the cash. Form a neighborhood watch to keep an eye on the house at vacation time. Do not react to road rage.

Hostesses greeting the guests and arranging the serving table were Eileen McComus, Viola Hostetter, Clara Rohrer, and Mildred Herr.

Lancaster County Farm Women Societies hosted the Spring Rally at Yoder's Restaurant, New Holland, May 16.

ANSWER — David Simpler, Elkton, Md., wrote that in the 1950s, his family ate watermelon rind preserves, for which he requested the recipe. This week, thanks to Tessie Kizis, Newsoms, Va., for providing this recipe:

Pickled Watermelon Rind

5 pounds watermelon rind (try to pick a melon with a thick rind, because you only use the white part).
5 cups granulated sugar
2 cups distilled white vinegar
2 cups water
½ teaspoon oil of cloves (these oils usually can be found in a drug store).
½ teaspoon oil of cinnamon.

Pare watermelon rind and cut into 2-inch pieces. Mix ½ cup salt with 2 quarts water and soak watermelon pieces overnight. In the morning, drain and rinse with cold, clear water. Drain again. Cook watermelon in water until tender; drain. Combine sugar, vinegar, water, and spices. Bring to a boil and pour it over drained rind. Let stand overnight. The next morning, drain off syrup, cook syrup for 5-6 minutes. Repeat procedure for three days. On the third day, cook rind and syrup together for 3 minutes. Fruit will remain clear if the oil of spices are used. Use the water bath method. Makes 6 pints. Be sure to refrigerate overnight before serving.

Glorified Watermelon Rind Pickles
(Favorite recipe of 98-year-old neighbor.)

7 pounds watermelon rind after peeled and cut into small pieces.
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon powdered alum
3 ½ pounds sugar
1 pint white vinegar
½ teaspoon oil of clove
½ teaspoon oil of cinnamon.

Cook rind until tender in water to which the 2 teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon alum have been added. When tender, drain water and rinse well. Make syrup of sugar, vinegar, oil of clove, and oil of cinnamon, and pour over rind, boiling hot. Let stand until the next day.

Day 2 — Drain syrup and boil 7 minutes. Pour boiling syrup over rind and let stand until next day.

Day 3 — Drain syrup and boil 7 minutes. Pour boiling syrup over rind and let stand until the next day.

Day 4 — Heat rind and syrup to boiling. Pack in hot jars. Seal. Process in hot water bath.

ANSWER — Velma Waltemayer, Red Lion, wanted to know how to use salsify or oyster root. Velma remembers that during her childhood, her mother made sandwiches with salsify. Charlotte VanBuskirk includes two recipes from her "Mennonite Community Cookbook," using salsify (oyster root) as main ingredients.

Salsify or Mock Oyster Soup
(Credited in cookbook to Annie Beachy, Salisbury.)

1½ cups diced Salsify
1½ cups water
1 tablespoon butter
1 quart milk
Salt and pepper to taste.

Cook diced salsify in salt water until tender. Add butter and rich milk and bring to a boil. Season to taste. Serve with crackers. Serves 6-8.

Baked Salsify
(Credited in cookbook to Lizzie LeFevre, Sterling, Ill.)

2 cups cooked Salsify
2 eggs
2 cups crushed soda crackers
2 tablespoons butter
1½ teaspoon sale
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk.

Clean salsify and cut in small pieces. Cook in salt water until tender and drain. Break crackers in small pieces and place a layer in a greased baking dish. Add a layer of salsify and sprinkle with salt and petter. Continue to add alternate layers until the contents are used. Have cracker crumbs on top. Beat eggs and add milk. Pour this over ingredients with butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Serves 6.

ANSWER — Shirley Seifert wanted a recipe for canning or preserving garlic. Thanks to Peg Carson, Lansdale, who came up with this one.

Garlic Butter

4 garlic cloves
1 teaspoon sea salt
1 tablespoon chopped parsley (or cilantro)
½ cup butter (at room temperature)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Fresh ground pepper.

Finely chop garlic and to a paste with the sea salt, using a mortar and pestle. Blend in the parsley or cilantro, then heat in the lemon juice and pepper. Blend well. Fill a ramekin or small serving dish with the butter and chill, or freeze for later.

This butter is good on toasted crusty bread and vegetables such as cauliflower or zucchini.

ANSWER — Holly Miller, 2001-2002 Dauphin County Dairy Princess, submitted this recipe for Shrimp Dip.

Shrimp Dip

12 ounces cream cheese
8 ounces sour cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 package dry, mild Italian dressing mix
1 small can finely chopped shrimp, drained.

Mix all ingredients and let marinate several hours before serving.

ANSWER — Cindy Donahue-Varsaci, Beverly, N.J., requested recipes for baking canned cakes in a jar. Thanks to Tessie Kizis, Newsoms, Va., for these two recipes:

Canned Applesauce Cake

¾ cup shortening
3 ⅓ cups sugar
4 large eggs
2 cups applesauce
1 ½ cups raisins (optional)
¾ cup chopped nuts)optional)
3 ⅓ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 ½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves.

Cream shortening with sugar. Beat in the eggs and applesauce. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, and spices. Blend into applesauce mixture. Add chopped nuts and raisins, if desired.

Fill nine clean, greased, wide-mouth jars half full with the prepared batter. Bake open jars about 45 minutes in an oven at 325 degrees. When done, quickly remove one jar at a time and clean its sealing edge. Immediately apply and firmly tighten a two-piece wide-mouth canning lid. The lid will form a vacuum seal as the jar cools.

Brownie Cakes In A Jar

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon (optional)
⅓ cup butter
¼ cup water
3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder
¼ cup buttermilk
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup walnuts, finely chopped.

Sterilize two one-pint straight-edged wide-mouth canning jars (made for canning jams and jellies), lids, and rings by boiling 10 minutes (keep lids and rings in the hot water until ready to use). Set aside.

In a small bowl, stir together flour, sugar, baking soda, and cinnamon, and set aside. In a saucepan, combine butter, cocoa, and water. Heat and stir until butter is melted and mixture is well-blended. Remove from heat, stir in flour mixture. Add buttermilk, egg, and vanilla, and beat by hand until smooth. Stir in nuts.

Divide equally between the two canning jars. Place jars on cookie sheet. Bake in preheated oven at 325 degrees for 35-40 minutes or until a pick inserted into the center is clean. Remove the cakes, one at time, and immediately place on lid and ring; screw tightly. Jars will be very hot. Place jars on counter to cool. Jars will keep in a cool, dry place for up to six months. These make great Christmas gifts.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions received in the office.

Pears

Pears are one of the few fruits that are harvested before they are ready to eat. In this area Bartlett and Clapp's Favorite are considered the best. Keiffer are also acceptable.

For pickled or spiced pears, use Seckel pears.

When you buy pears, plan on getting about 16-25 quarts of processed fruit from a bushel. About 17.5 pounds of pears are needed for a 7-quart canner load.

When you purchase pears, they will ripen in 7-14 days unless they are refrigerated. To get the best quality, sort often and preserve them as they ripen ideally for eating fresh.

Wash and peel pears. Cut lengthwise and remove the core. A melon baller or metal measuring spoon is suitable for coring pears. Pears are best when hot packed. To make a hot pack, place drained fruit in boiling syrup, juice or water and boil 5 minutes. Fill clean jars with hot fruit and cooking liquid, leaving ½-inch head space.

How do you prevent darkening of the fruit after it is peeled? Keep peeled fruit in water with vitamin C made by mixing 1 teaspoon crystalline ascorbic acid or six 500-milligrams of vitamin C tablets, in a gallon of water.

Where can you purchase ascorbic acid? Crystalline ascorbic acid can be purchased at a pharmacy.

Can pears be frozen? Yes, but the quality is softer when thawed. Peel and core pears, treat to prevent darkening. Mix 2-½ cups sugar and ½ teaspoon crystalline ascorbic acid or three 500-milligram tablets, in 4 cups of water. Add 1 cup of syrup per quart of prepared fruit. Pears can be frozen by filling pint or quart sized freezer bags to a level of 3-4 inches from the top. Squeeze out the air; leave 1-inch headspace, seal, label, and freeze. Do not freeze more than 2 pounds of food per cubic foot of freezer capacity per day.

Is it possible to can pears without sugar? A compatible fruit juice can be substituted for the canning syrup. Bottled or frozen unsweetened juices can be used. Pears go well with apple, white grape and pineapple juice. Select ripe, firm fruit for sugarless canning. Add 500 milligrams of ascorbic acid to each quart of canned fruit to help reduce the color change. Add directly to each quart jar after crushing the tablet.

How long do pears need to be processed? In Lancaster County, process pints for 20 minutes and quarts for 25 minutes in a boiling water bath. Times will be different at higher altitudes. Pints or quarts of pears may also be pressure canned for 10 minutes at 6 pounds of pressure.

Can artificial sweeteners be used to can or freeze pears and other fruits? Artificial sweeteners should be added to canned or frozen fruit just before serving. Do not use in canning syrups. The heat of processing may cause some sweeteners to lose sweetening power and others may cause an unpleasant after taste or flavor change.

For additional information on preserving pears contact your local Cooperative Extension office and ask for the Let's Preserve Pears publication.

If you have food preservation questions, a Home Economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays from 9 a.m.- 1 p.m. Call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Rm. 1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Fairs Mean Fun For All Ages

Katie Schultz, 9, Dillsburg, carefully guides her Hereford around the ring in one of Elizabethtown Fair's showmanship classes.

Janel Zinn, 10, Newville, wears a bandana reminiscent of her calf "Goldie." She is the daughter of Scott and Marilyn Zinn and has an older sister who also shows cattle. The family brought eight Ayrshires and one Holstein to the Elizabethtown shows.

Cousins Samantha Johns, 9, and Rashanna Alspaugh, also 9, take some time off to play a game at Kutztown Fair. The girls keep their Holsteins at their grandfather's farm. Both young exhibitors are 4-H participants.

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.), and Elizabethtown (Lancaster Co.) — Fair time is a busy time of year for exhibitors, both before and during the fair.

A few young exhibitors began their show ring careers this year, perhaps following the footsteps of older siblings or putting new knowledge from 4-H participation to work.

Regardless of whether they are exhibiting or not, however, the fair — with its good food, friends, and animals — spells fun for both young exhibitors and those who are attending to just watch or support exhibitors they know. These pictures were taken at the recent Kutztown and Elizabethtown fairs. Photos by Michelle Kunjappu

Sisters Jaylene, 7, and Laura Lesher, 5, are quickly learning the work of preparing an animal for the show ring. They are the daughters of William and Lolly Lesher, Bernville.

Grant Calloway, 8, Seaford, Del., works on his showmanship skills at Elizabethtown Fair.

Dereck Nissley, 11, Middletown, prepares his sheep for the ring at Elizabethtown Fair. This is his third year showing sheep.

Twins Alex, left, and Austin Nissley, 7, Middletown, and Becca Slack, 6, Bainbridge, watch the sheep show and enjoy a pizza party on the bleachers at the Elizabethtown Fair.

Lancaster Mennonite FFA Chapter Chosen Two-Star Winner

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The National FFA Organization recently selected the Lancaster Mennonite FFA Chapter as a two-star winner in the National FFA Chapter Award program. The chapter members have been invited to attend the 74th National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky., where they will be recognized for this honor.

The National FFA Chapter Award program recognizes FFA chapters for developing and conducting a detailed Program of Activities (POA). These activities and projects provide citizenship, personal and leadership development opportunities to students. Each activity is categorized into one of three areas: student, chapter, or community development. Every year, chapters are recognized as having earned a one, two or three-star rating on their application. The three-star rating is the highest level of accomplishment a chapter may achieve.

The Lancaster Mennonite FFA Chapter has been selected as a two-star winner for more than 500 nationwide applications. The award program is sponsored by Cargill and Land O'Lakes as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

York County Heritage Presents Giant A-Frame Compressor

YORK (York Co.) — After much work, restoration of the giant A-frame ammonia compressor, at the York County Heritage Trust's Industrial and Agricultural Museum, 217 W. Princess St., is nearly complete and it's public opening is scheduled for Sept. 18. In honor of its public opening, admission to the museum will be 25 cents from Sept. 18-21, a penny for every foot in height, so discover the cold facts about refrigeration.

The giant A-frame compressor measures 15½ feet wide, 26½ feet tall, and weighs 72.5 tons. It was one of the largest of its kind in the world, and was at the forefront of ammonia-based refrigeration.

The compressor is the centerpiece of the museum's exhibit on refrigeration, and the wonderful advances that refrigeration brought.

Shippensburg Celebrates 21st Corn Festival

Allen Brown, nutritionist for Agway, David Landis, Shippensburg School District superintendent, and Shippensburg Young Adult Farmer President Dale Beidel work at selling 100 dozen of "Argent" corn to festival goers.

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — The end of summer. Heralded by dry days, full-to-bursting produce stands, and back-to-school preparations, in Shippensburg the summer of 2001 comes to a close with a celebration of one of the season's best crops: sweet corn.

A local farm contributed the "Argent" corn to the stand. "We caught them before they got it to market," said Beidel. "The corn is done on a lot of farms that were planted early."

Other offerings included birdhouses, baskets, jams and jellies, dried flower arrangements, homemade hard candy, crocks and rugs.

According to festival committee co-chair Barbara Bietsch, Shippensburg, vendors must submit pictures and a description of their stand by January 15. Even food vendors are juried, said Bietsch. "We have a waiting list."

"There are just so many repeaters," said Bietsch. "We like to have old and new."

The festival committee mainly chooses stands based on variety, she said. "Also, we like wood right now, like old barn wood. It seems to be very popular. The antique vendors are also doing very well."

The corn festival is an honored tradition for the area, she said. "The foundations in this area are very agricultural," she said.

According to Bietsch the festival is a large task to plan and execute. "We are quite active throughout the year trying to get the event together," she said.

Committee members were on location at 4 a.m. and "there are a lot of people here at that time," she said. "We get there so we can direct vendors to the area, since setup begins at 6 a.m."

Occasionally the event coincides with the return of university students to campus. "On years that the students come back it's very hectic," she said.

Long lines of people clustered around another type of corn also at the festival: popped corn. "Kornucopia's Kettle Korn" attracted interest as the team popped several hundred pounds of corn grown in Mount Joy, Lancaster County, during course of the day.

According to Spurgeon Davis, vice president of the Camp Hill corporation, the corn is "made the way folks used to make it in the pioneer days. It used to be, when they butchered hogs, that they had lard left over in the kettle, so they popped corn," said Davis.

Maple syrup, honey, and molasses also in the kettle add the hint of sweetness which characterizes kettle corn. Today vendors use a soybean oil instead of lard, a mixture of several types of sugar, and salt when they make the corn.

Spurgeon's wife, Nancy, and daughter Lucy, 8, also work at the stand.

"I saw a man doing it so I checked it out and decided that it was something we could do as a family," he said.

The one-day show, which begins at 8 a.m., closes at 5 p.m.

The festival began as a corporation formed in 1990 to preserve places of historical interest, generate public interest in the town, and promote interest and appreciation of Shippensburg's architecture and recreational facilities.

Proceeds generated by the festival during the last 20 years have, indeed, generated change and improvement in the historical area of the town. Period lights, accompanied by Christmas wreaths, were placed on several streets, a wrought iron fence was constructed, and a gazebo was restored with festival money, only part of the projects completed with the proceeds.

A stainless steel kettle, heat, oil, sugar, and salt are the ingredients of the "kettle corn" sold at this stand. The kernels are stirred in the oil for only a few moments before rapid popping ensures. A sugar glaze puts the sweetness on the corn while it is popped.

Conducted the last Saturday of August every year, the festival draws 30,000 visitors to the small college town in southwestern Pennsylvania. This year marks the festival's 21st anniversary.

Each year King Street, the main artery through the town, is inundated with 275 craft and antique vendors plus 32 food vendors that stretch several blocks down the road. Store owners and even private homes paint ears of corn on their windows to add decoration to the event.

100 Dozen Ears Of Sweet Corn

The Shippensburg Young Adult Farmers Association has sold sweet corn at the festival since its inception, according to president Dale Beidel. Customers get the full corn festival experience as they roll the $1 ear in butter and salt it before eating.

At least 15 people came Saturday morning to husk the 100 dozen ears of corn, a job that was completed in two hours. Most of the ears are sold individually, said Beidel. Forty to 50 people, mostly members of the group, helped out during the course of the day, filling in the two-hour time slots.

Corn husk wreaths were one way to incorporate the theme of the festival into the vendor's wares.

A customer purchases a steaming ear of corn from the Shippensburg Young Adult Farmers Association stand.

Maryann Dzugan, New York, has attended the festival for three years. While her husband enjoys a nearby car show, Dzugan and friends come to shop for unique items such as this corn husk wreath. "It keeps getting bigger," she said.

Jackie Smith, Germany, and Steve Cook, Virginia, were committed festival-goers before they moved away. They both came back to the area to revisit the end-of-summer festivities.

PDA Promotes Farm Safety

NEWPORT (Perry Co.) — Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) Secretary Sam Hayes recently joined members of the Perry County chapter of "Farm Safety 4 Just Kids" at the Perry County Fair to promote farm safety for Pennsylvania children. The department is the first state agency in the nation to participate in the Farm Safety 4 Just Kids program.

"From sunrise to sunset, begin safe and end safe — that should be everyone's goal when using farm tractors or equipment," Secretary Hayes said. "Our visit to the Perry County Fair today is one of many ways the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture reaches out to promote farm safety."

Hayes said the department uses Farm Safety 4 Just Kids resources to teach children how to stay safe.

To begin each day safe and end each day safe, Hayes advises the following safety practices when working with or near farm tractors or equipment:

- Before and after each use, perform an operational service check (i.e. inspect fluid levels; attached equipment; and the condition of the steering mechanism, lights, tires, brakes and visibility);
- Follow manufacturer instructions on the use of seatbelts;
- Never allow extra riders on board the tractor;
- Do not hitch wagons or other equipment to any part of the tractor other than the drawbar or hitch points recommended by the manufacturer;
- Always operate at a safe speed; reduce speed when making turns, crossing slopes and traveling on rough, slick or muddy surfaces;
- Do not attempt to work on slopes too steep for safe operation;
- Always use good judgment when allowing children of any age to operate tractors; and
- Securely set the brakes, and shut off the engine and use park lock, if available, when stopped.

For more information about the Farm Safety 4 Just Kids program or farm safety tips, contact the Bureau of Plant Industry at (717) 787-4843.

Garden State Sheep and Fiber Festival Sept. 15-16

HARMONY, N.J. The Garden State Sheep Breeders will present their 7th annual sheep and fiber festival Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15-16, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. here at the Warren County Farmers Fairgrounds.

The open sheep show will get under way at 10 a.m. Saturday and run through much of the day. The show is open to any persons willing to show their best sheep in front of a judge. The animals will be judged in a group according to their breed, wool, and body conformation. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded to those chosen by the judge, Donald M. Kniffen Jr.

Sheep shearing will take place throughout the two days. A half shorn sheep will be on display to the general public the "before and "after" of shearing results. She will later have the other half shorn.

With the display of sheep breeds, spectators will be able to touch and see the difference in the many varieties there are in the sheep world. At the information booth, free handouts will be available for those interested in learning more about sheep, llamas, alpacas, goats, and more.

The North Country Spinners from Blairstown will demonstrate carding wool, spinning it into yarn, dyeing it varied colors and finally knitting the yarn into hats. The hats will be donated to needy children in the townships surrounding Blairstown.

For a change of pace at the festival, rides will be available for a small fee in a hay wagon drawn by Jack and Jill, handled by owners Harm Pump and Dave Stover of the Hunterdon Coach and Wagon, Ltd. located out of Stockton, N.J.

Musical entertainment at the festival will include the band, "Unsafe At Any Speed," on Saturday plus a mix of acoustic folk, country, bluegrass and gospel music featuring Bert Coffman, Perkasie, Pa. on guitar, banjo and mandolin; Peter Kellers of Bedminster, Pa., on bass; and Dick and Helen Weed of Ewing Twp., on guitar, banjo, harmonica and percussion.

The Garden State Breeders boast that they have the largest fleece show and sale in the state of New Jersey. Over 40 fleeces were entered last year. Ribbons and prizes will be awarded. Contestants will able to sell their fleeces. There will also be a skein contest judged by Catherine Marshall. She has been spinning since 1984 and is a member of the North Country Spinners and the Westfield Weavers Guild.

For more information about the meetings or this year's festival, contact Eunice Bench at (908) 730-7189 or Stephen Rothenberger at (908) 454-7611 or visit the web page at www.quintillion.com/sheepbreeders.

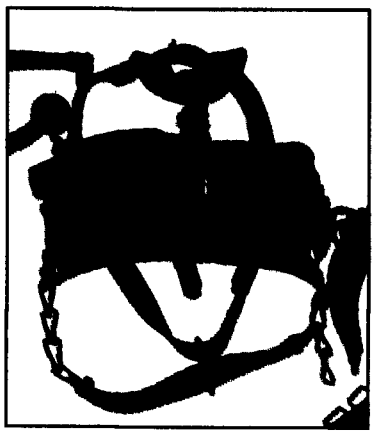
Customers Help Identify Ivystone's Hodgepodge Collection

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

OSTERBURG (Bedford Co.) — Slick's Ivystone is a Bedford County Landmark. Owned by the Slick's for 22 years, this restaurant located on old Route 220 just north of Bedford is known for its down home cooking and yesteryear decorations.

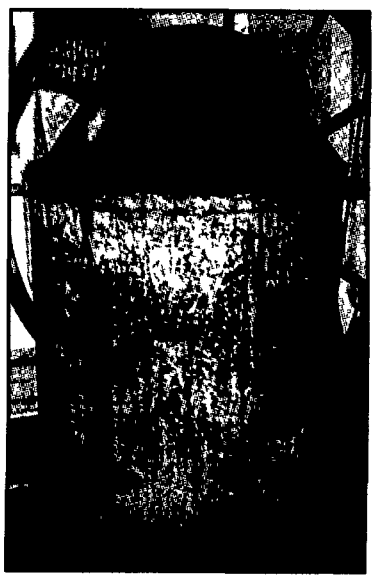
Does anyone have a clue what this is. Susan says she is totally puzzled, as the crank located near the contraption at the bottom of the long handle seems too far out of reach. It looks as though it might be some kind of a picker.



Diners at the Ivystone like to try to guess what this is. After many wrong guesses, they learn the answer — a bull blinder.

"My mom started collecting antiques to decorate the walls when she and my dad first took over the restaurant," says Susan Slick, who along with her brother, Sam, owns the Ivystone.

"She always liked antiques and there was a flea market just up the road every Sunday. When she couldn't get away, she would send another family member. Our collection grew and this is what we now have," she said as she pointed to the numerous rooms full of memorabilia.



A genuine antique still, which is complete with a bullet hole.

The Ben Franklin room is full of tools for both the farm and the kitchen. Pictures from their grandparents' day adorn the walls of the Harvest Room. A child's dress, more then 100 years old, and picture of a local resident, Bill Cameron, wearing that dress as a toddler, and old photo albums are also highlights in that room.

Lunch buckets are going up in price every day, according to Susan, decorate a high shelf in the Heritage Room along with a 1930's vintage radio and a collection of pitchers.

China teacups and saucers and more ornate paintings add a Victorian touch to the restaurant's newest room, "The Elizabeth," named for Susan and Sam's mother.

In the reception area is a hodgepodge of delightful yesteryear items including a collection of reamers, hats, an old oil receptacle, toys, and even a uniform once worn by a Marine who was Susan and Sam's uncle.

There is an array of ladies' hats decorating the coat room; feedsacks adorn the wall adjacent to the restrooms.

In almost every nook and corner, one sees something to remember the past. There are typewriters, sweepers, fire extinguishers, hornet's nests, gardening tools, and even a still.

"Some people give us items," Susan says. "Especially the hats. Mother started decorating with a few hats from family members and people would bring us more. Customers gave us the hornet's nests, the typewriters, and even the still."

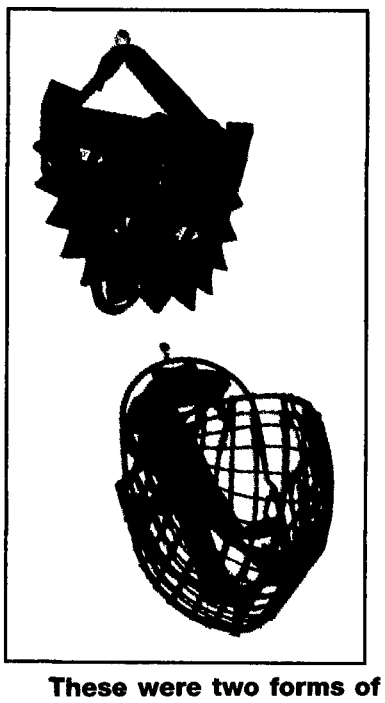
In all the years the restaurant has been in operation there has only been one theft. "Someone took a doll from a highchair," Susan remembers.

She says customers are often helpful in identifying items that might otherwise remain a secret of the past.

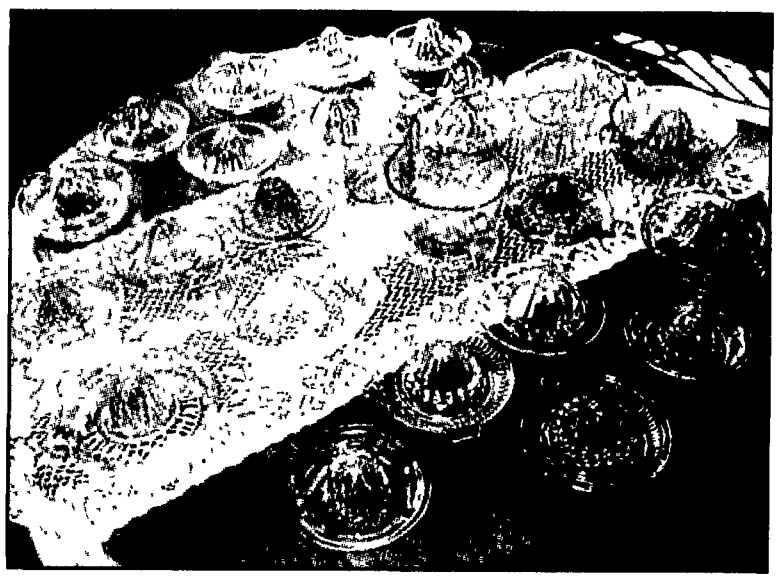
Slick's Ivystone is open from the weekend prior to Palm Sunday until December 23.

"We do a lot of holiday parties and have a big Thanksgiving day," Susan says. "We serve the traditional holiday dinner plus our regular menu items for families so big there is no room for them to eat in anyone's home. And, we get a lot of small families who can't see cooking a huge dinner for two or three people."

Susan said, "We enjoy the winter months off but are always looking forward to spring. The months we are closed does give us a lot of time to clean all of our antiques."

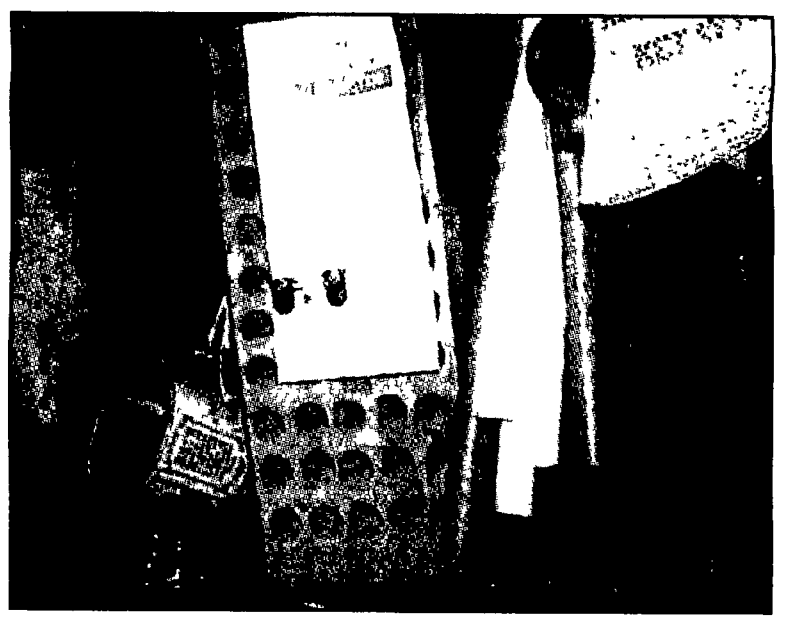


These were two forms of calf weaners. The one looks more like an instrument of torture.

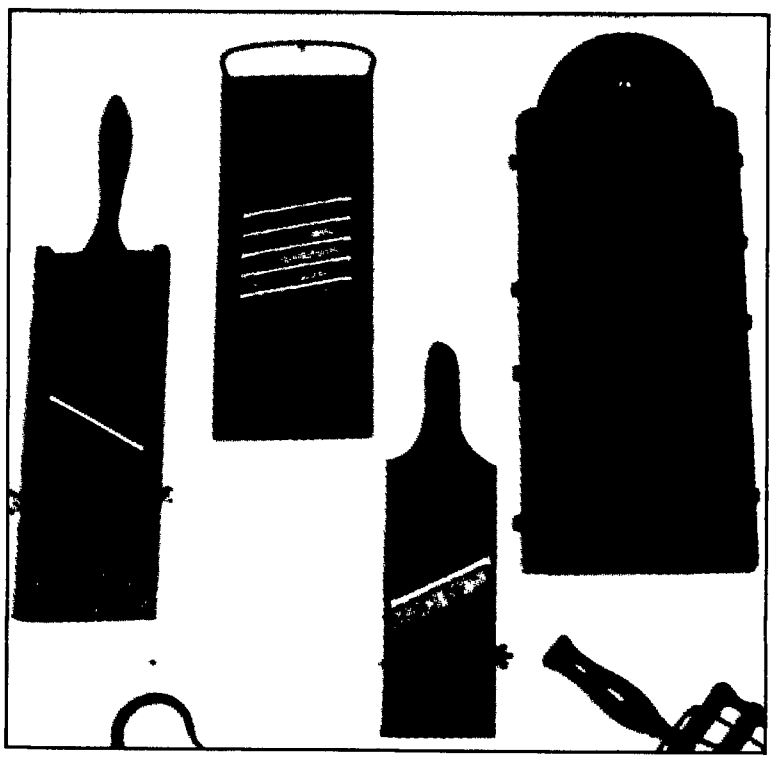


Glass reamers are popular collectibles.

Remember match holders?



Who remembers glasses for chickens? They were red glasses designed to keep them from pecking each other to death.



Slaw cutters from other eras.

Another popular collectible item is lunch boxes. Remember your favorite?

Zippo Lighters Spark Collector Interest

Ever since their invention in 1933, Zippo lighters have been collected and even handed down as family heirlooms. What makes the success story of Zippo unique is that they were marketed during the Depression, the invention of George G. Blaisdell, in Bradford.

Aside from their usefulness, one thing that appeals to hundreds of collectors is the way their surface was used to illustrate everything from army insignias during World War II to space flight and celebrities such as Elvis Presley and the Beetles.

In an informative and beautifully illustrated book on the subject, "An American Legend Zippo" by Avi R. Baer and Alexander Neumark, the role of this humble invention in American history is documented. In fact, "Zippo" has become almost a generic term for lighter.

George Blaisdell had always been an entrepreneur, and when his oil drilling business suffered during the early part of the Depression, he began looking for new ventures. As the story goes, the birth of Zippo began with a chance meeting with a wealthy, well-dressed man at a country club gathering. Though expensively attired, the man was using a utilitarian, dollar Austrian lighter. He explained he used it "because it works."

Blaisdell, who had worked during his early years in his father's machine shop, saw possibilities. The result appeared in 1933-34 and was named "Zippo" simply because Blaisdell like it. The price was $1.95. Today, if you can find one, collectors pay hundreds of dollars.

Since then more than a thousand manufacturers have made lighters. They, too, are collectible, among them Ronson, Dunhill, Parker and Evans.

One of the things that has made Zippo unique is their advertising promise that it would never cost a customer money to have their Zippo repaired. People from all over the world still send their Zippos to the factory for free repairs.

Detective

In 1936, elegance came to the lighter when they could be engraved with initials or small colored insignias. The engraving was done on a thin metallic frame cemented to the case and filled with enamel paint. The early colors were black, red, blue, green, yellow, orange, purple, and white.

It was the World War II armed forces who really made Zippo a necessity. Before the end of the war, several million had been sold. GIs personalized them with initials, military emblems, or the names of sweethearts and wives. As the GIs traveled to various countries, those people also got acquainted with Zippos. After the war, European, Asian, and Africa sales grew.

By 1950, the Zippo had come a long way from its plain chrome finish to calfskin or Moroccan grain leather with gold foiling. A variety of stylish table lighters were also introduced in the '50s and '60s.

CLUES: Over the years, Zippo has used a variety of new art techniques, commemoratives, and special series. A collector could specialize in not only military lighter designs from World War II, but include Viet Nam. In fact, many GIs had Vietnamese craftsmen engrave scenes on their lighters, or their names with Division insignias.

Whatever was in fashion was utilized by Zippo. A good example was the popularity of denim in the 1970s. Zippo came out with denim covering. Two other popular series were the 1970s Zodiac series and NFL (National Football League). They began featuring the football helmets of the various teams. This is an ongoing series.

Highly sought after are limited edition series such as the 1993 Harley-Davidson series, with only 1,000 numbered lighters made.

To identify the year a Zippo was made (and authenticity), look for the patent number on the bottom. Check it with the listing in the back of "An American Legend Zippo," published Running Press Books, 125 S. Twenty-Second Street, Philadelphia, PA, 19103-4399.

The SIGNATURE 6000 may be the only rock picker you'll ever need. This is the most rugged rock picker on the market. Some of the SIGNATURE 6000 features include:

Solid Shaft Grill Tines with Replaceable Grill Tips - This modern grill is easier to maintain, has longer life giving you less down time. The unique grill provides five feet of clean sifting and virtually jamless performance.

Grated Hopper Bottom - We use spring steel straps in the hopper, engineered to bounce back in shape.

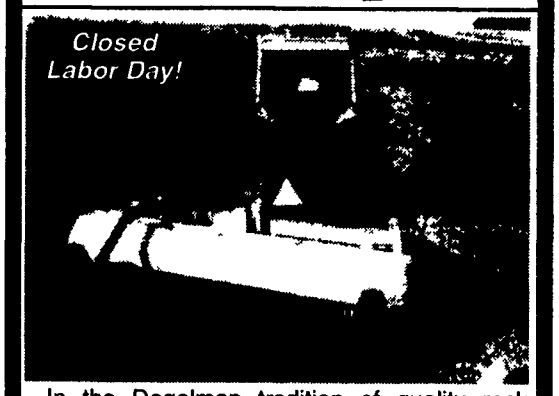
Hydraulic Drive - The most popular drive on rock pickers is hydraulic which is standard on the 6000. We have incorporated a relief valve to take away the shock when disengaging the drive.

Reel Assembly - The three paddle reel has a large diameter, hard surfaced teeth and heavy duty paddles.

Flotation Tires - The 16.5L x 16.1 flotation tires are standard equipment and are a must to reduce soil compaction.

Swing Pole - Easy to maneuver in both working or transport position.

Degelman



In the Degelman tradition of quality rock removal equipment, here is the RR1500 rock rake, another example of Degelman's continuing commitment to excellence.

The RR1500 rock rake includes a unique auto-fold system which provides safe, easy transport no wider than most tractors (8 feet in transport position) with full use of the 14 foot width in the working position. And with hydraulic angling, it can take full advantage of the 10 to 30 degree angling range.

Degelman Rock Rakes are excellent machines for grooming fairways and conditioning soil for the construction of golf courses It leaves a beautiful final finish preparing the course for seeding. They are also used for reclaiming gravel on gravel roads. And the heavy duty construction and quality workmanship means that it is built to last.

KEENAN

TMR SOLUTIONS FOR BETTER HERD HEALTH THE PROOF IS IN THE MIX

"Displaced Abomasum, (DA), problems in newly calved cows have virtually been eliminated!" This is one major feature on Michael & Nancy Jarrett's Lost Brook Farm, in Montgomery, PA, since the arrival of the Keenan mixer.

This 160 cow herd has a rolling herd average of 22,700 pounds, at 3.8% butterfat, which highlights the attention to detail shown on this well run dairy farm. Investing in a Keenan mixer met an immediate need for the farm operation. The ability to add structural fiber, in the form of hay, to their milk cow, dry cow and heifer TMR's.

Working as a team, Michael & Nancy, along with Howard their feeder, Scott Crandell their nutritionist, and Tony Hall, the Keenan TMR specialist, review the structural fiber content of the farms forages and TMR's, using a Penn State Particle Separator. The results obtained are compared to the targets needed for cow cud chewing, and good rumen health. This is all part of Keenans on site service to the farmer, and their advisory team, during the first year of a Keenan mixer ownership.

Already the team have increased the hay content of the milk cow TMR's from zero to 2 pounds per cow daily. A loading and mixing procedure agreed with Howard ensures optimum hay integration every time. Spot checks on samples by Tony enable the team at Lost Brook Farm to assess the consistency of feed out, as well as how good a particular mix is for the cows rumen health. Guidelines are agreed to help minimize cow sorting behavior during feeding.

Mix consistency at this dairy with their Keenan has been excellent, from beginning to end of feed out. When the hay was added to the High and Low cow groups respectively, the cows reduced their intake of free choice sodium bicarbonate voluntarily! The increase in ration texture had promoted better cud chewing in the cow, and reduced sub-clinical rumen acidosis, so the cows "backed" themselves off the "bicarb". This of course is the main reason why the DA problem has also been dramatically reduced, better rumen health during the crucial period after calving.

Steps have already been taken this season to cut the haylage crops longer, to get better cud chewing from this home grown chopped forage, so capitalizing on the Keenan mixers non-destructive mixing action. Similarly, the replacement heifer rations now have the high hay contents accurately mixed in their TMR's, with no room for the variation in intakes with free choice hay feeding. The team agree, "The heifers look great!"

So, for the ability to add hay to your TMR's, without the risk of over-processing and for the feeding out of a consistent mix all along the bunk, whatever the hay content, choose Keenan as your next mixer. Mix-It, Feed-It, Profit!

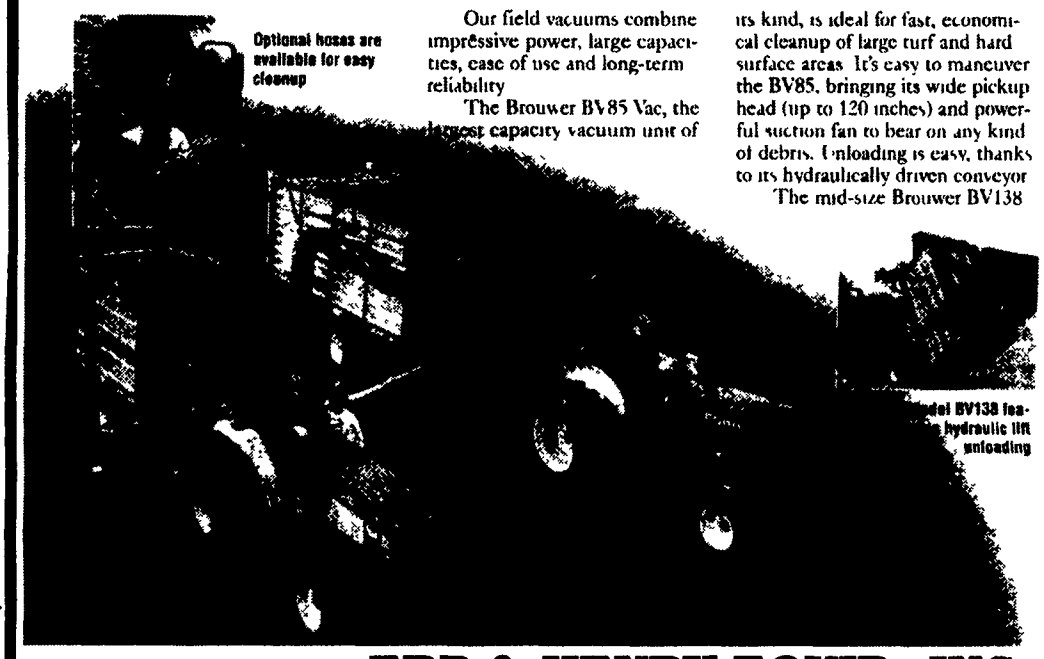
Our vacs have a capacity for hard work.



Our field vacuums combine impressive power, large capacities, ease of use and long-term reliability.

The Brouwer BV85 Vac, the largest capacity vacuum unit of its kind, is ideal for fast, economical cleanup of large turf and hard surface areas. It's easy to maneuver the BV85, bringing its wide pickup head (up to 120 inches) and powerful suction fan to bear on any kind of debris. Unloading is easy, thanks to its hydraulically driven conveyor.

The mid-size Brouwer BV138 Vac is designed for hard-to-reach areas that require a compact, maneuverable machine. The BV138 features heavy-duty impeller fans, creating a mulching effect on debris before it enters the hopper to significantly increase capacity. And, the BV138's hydraulic lift makes unloading simple.

Two great vacs. One great name. For the best in field vacuums, visit your Brouwer dealer today.

Top Producers Choose Knight!

Congratulations to the La-Foster Farm

Terry and Gerald Foster are very proud of their record-breaking cow, Lucy, and rightly so. She produced 75,260 pounds of milk in her last lactation. They are also pleased with their Knight Reel Auggie® mixers, which, combined with the Foster's excellent management practices, have propelled the La-Foster herd average to the #1 milk production status in North Carolina. There is no comparison to the complete, palatable blend from a Knight Reel Auggie, with its patented reel and auger blending combination. Why else would the La-Foster Farm choose only Knight to feed their record-setting herd?

in the engineering of tractor design. It will change the way you work.
Cutting-edge engineering has blended the efficiency of powershift and versatility of hydrostatic technology.
an infinite selection of speeds with no shifting. Engine potential is maximized, giving you the exact working speed you require and not just something "close enough". Productivity rises noticeably. Fuel consumption drops.
plus hydraulics are now controlled through a joystick linked to the on-board computer. All the power and control is in a slight movement of your wrist. Power that ranges from 72 to 240 PTO horsepower. combine to make this tractor your secret weapon for a much more profitable and comfortable working day.
But it will have to be a FENDT. No other tractor in North America offers this amazing technology.

BEEF TIPS

Heavier calves in the North

Cows of similar genetic makeup were moved from Miles City, MT, to Brooksville, FL, and visa versa. After 10 years, birth weights in the Florida herd, moved from Montana, had declined from 81 pounds to 64 pounds. Conversely, birth weights in the herd moved from Florida to Montana had increased from 66 to 77 pounds. Studies confirm that calves of comparable genotype will be born heavier in the North, primarily due to increased blood flow to internal organs in colder climates.
